ENVOYS MAY NOT AGREE

Possibility of a Hitch in the Peace Negotiations.

ARMISTICE DELAYED

Japan Will Not Cease Hostilities Until Final Document Is Signed.

IT WILL NOT BE POPULAR

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 1.—The only possible hitch on the horizon of the peace conference, according to reports current here, which, however, are not officially confirmed, arises out of an evident misunderstanding of the question of the neutralization of the island of Sakhalin. According to the Japanese, the understanding reached on Tuesday contemplated a mutual obligation on the part of the two countries not to fortify their respective possessions on the island.

At St. Petersburg, however, there seems to have been an assumption that the agreement involved freedom of action upon the part of Russia in this respect in the north of Sakhalin, with an obligation on the part of the Japanese not to fortify or use for strategic purposes the portion owned by her before 1876, which is to be retroceded in the present treaty. It is expected on both sides, however, that the hitch, if it really exists as reported, will shortly be straightened out and it is believed that one of the subjects of tonight's conference related to this point.

Keeping Treaty a Secret.

Cable communication between Baron Komura and his government has been interrupted for the greater part of the day, but a message is said to have been received late tonight. Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira were in conference for a long time tonight. It is understood to be the present intention of the Tokyo government not to make public the conditions of peace until the ratification of the treaty has been exchanged. The official explanation is that this is the "regular diplomatic method of procedure."

Put among the Japanese correspondents considerable suspicion has been aroused by the fact that until now their cablegrams giving the terms of peace have not passed the censor. They do not hesitate to say the government is anxious about the effect on public opinion when it becomes known that Japan waived her demand for indemnity to obtain peace.

Discussing the Details.

As a result of the reports made tonight by Mr. De Martens and Mr. Dennison to their respective chiefs upon their work this afternoon at the navy yard in the drafting of a treaty of peace, M. Witte and Baron Komura had a brief conference in the former's apartments tonight regarding some details of translation and a few points of interpretation upon which the framers had been unable to reach complete accord. When Baron Komura left Mr. Dennison and Mr. Adachi he entered the apartments of M. Witte, where they were joined by Mr. De Martens and Mr. Plancon. This conference lasted for about an hour, when the Japanese returned to Baron Komura's apartments, leaving M. Witte and his chief conferees, who remained in conference more than an hour.

M. Witte and Baron Komura had no difficulty in coming to an agreement on the disputed points, and at tomorrow's session the framers of the treaty expect to complete their work. The treaty must then be engrossed in French and English in duplicate, which may take several days.

Treaty Nearly Complete.

It is stated tonight that 12 articles of the treaty have been completed and agreed upon. It now seems probable that the framers will be able to confine the treaty to 14 articles instead of 15, as was the original plan.

M. Witte continues to receive messages of congratulation from all over the world. He reads each one of them and gives directions to his secretary regarding the answers to be sent.

Japan has refused to consent to the cessation of hostilities until the treaty of peace has been signed. Japan having indicated last night, through Baron Komura, her willingness for an armistice, Witte supposed that he would find the papers ready to sign. Baron Komura explained that while his government was ready to consent to an armistice, his instructions were that this should not take effect until after the signing of the treaty. The Russian position was that Japan's contention was without precedent and that if the armistice was not to take effect until the signing of the treaty it was practically unnecessary. However, the Japanese were insistent, and an agreement was accordingly entered into providing for an armistice, which shall take effect the moment the treaty is signed.

Armistice Practically in Effect.

Mr. Sato, in explanation of Japan's insistence that the armistice shall not go into effect until the treaty is signed, said: "It is necessary that not only the commanders in the field, but all the commanders of ships shall be notified and this necessarily requires a little time. Japan did not desire to have the armistice go into effect until the commanders on sea and land had been notified, thus insuring the maintenance of the agreement."

It is pointed out in Japanese circles that an armistice has practically been in effect since the conference began, and it is declared that there is no ground for anxiety for a clash before the signature of the treaty.

The "treaty of Portsmouth" is to be given to the world. There is to be no secret about it, neither government having any reason to withhold it. Its provisions are therefore to be published broadcast textually, but not immediately. Mr. Sato said today that it would not be given out until the final ratifications had

MOODY ON TRAIL OF BEEF TRUST

Attorney General Is at Work in Chicago and Discusses His Plans.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Definite plans for the prosecution of the big packers under the indictments returned against them in July were made today at a conference between Attorney General Moody, Assistant Attorney General Pagin and District Attorney Morrison. The meeting with the attorney general, who is looked upon as the personal representative of President Roosevelt, was held behind closed doors. The activity of stenographers and attaches of the federal prosecutor's office was deemed significant. Mr. Moody said:

"I am in Chicago on the question of the packers. There is no use maintaining any secrecy about it. Since the case first came up I have, of course, kept as closely in touch as possible through correspondence with Mr. Morrison and Mr. Pagin. There were, of course, some points that could be better discussed in a personal interview. That is why I am here. I will not under any circumstances discuss the merits of the case at the present time. To do so would be foolhardy and would exhibit poor judgment. Mr. Morrison will have plenty of talking to do when the case is on trial."

According to the present plans of the federal prosecutors the case against the packers will be put on call in the October term of court. It is expected that the first task of Mr. Morrison will be to fight motions to quash all the indictments.

OFFICERS CAMP AT COAL MINE WITH BLOODHOUNDS

Waiting for an Escaped Inmate of Woodville to Make Exit—He Killed a Farmer.

Camped on the outside of an abandoned coal mine near Walkers Mills with two bloodhounds and two guards, County Detective Robert McMillen is awaiting for Thomas Russell, an escaped inmate of the insane department of the county home at Woodville, to make his exit.

Russell escaped from the county home yesterday morning at 3 o'clock by sawing the window bars of his room in the insane department. He was traced to the coal mine, but the detective and the guards feared to enter.

Russell was tried for killing John Wasmuth, a farmer of Walkers Mills, whom he hit on the head with a piece of gas pipe on September 22, 1904. He was adjudged insane and committed to the home at Woodville.

REAL NATIONAL FLOWER.

Chicago Gardener Thinks He Can Produce Red, White and Blue Chrysanthemums.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Joseph Frey, head gardener at Lincoln park, is seeking to give the country a national flower in the form of a chrysanthemum plant which will grow red, white and blue blossoms.

At the last annual chrysanthemum show in Lincoln park, Frey displayed hybridized chrysanthemums which presented the colonial colors—yellow and white blossoms growing on one stalk. This caused him to undertake the more difficult problem of growing red, white and blue chrysanthemums on one stalk.

JAPANESE, DISAPPOINTED, RENOUNCES ALLEGIANCE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1.—Disappointed because the Japanese government renounced all indemnity in the peace settlement and did not insist on greater territorial acquisitions from Russia, Sinoshuke Kitani, Cleveland's leading Japanese merchant, has renounced his allegiance to the mikado by taking out his first naturalization papers.

Ex-State Treasurer Harris Injured.

CLEARFIELD, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Ex-State Treasurer Frank G. Harris and E. E. Lindemuth, treasurer of the Clearfield Trust Company, while out driving last evening collided with a team coming the opposite direction. Mr. Harris was thrown out of the carriage and sustained a broken rib and finger and a bad cut in his head.

Witte's Daughter Loses Jewels.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 1.—Mme. Naryshkine, wife of Count M. Naryshkine, secretary of the Russian legation here, and daughter of M. Witte, the Russian peace plenipotentiary, while leaving the theater tonight missed a pearl necklace valued at $9,000. The thief escaped.

BURGLARS' LOOT WORTH FORTUNE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Jose Aymar's residence at No. 76 East Fifty-fourth street has been plundered during the past week of jewelry, bric-a-brac, paintings, silver, etc., worth, it is alleged, more than $100,000. The police made the robbery public late tonight. Mr. Aymar is a millionaire lawyer, who married Miss Lillian La Bau Vanderbilt.

The family is in Canada. The caretaker of adjacent property saw persons moving in the Aymar house during the last week, but paid no attention to them until Thursday evening, when he saw three suspicious looking men walk out of the basement door carrying bundles and bags, and notified the police. The police telegraphed Mr. Aymar and he wired his valet to take charge at the house.

"There were $200,000 worth of paintings, jewelry, silver and bric-a-brac in the house," said the valet tonight, "and fully half of it is gone."

"SUNDOWN BUS" VISITS WITH THE PRESIDENT

Work Does Not Worry Him and He Finds Him the Same "Teddy" He Used to Know.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—"Sundown Bus," the original stage coach driver of Spear Fish Canyon, S. D., is in Chicago on his way home after a two-day visit with President Roosevelt, who is his warm friend. "Sundown's" name was originally Samuel P. Busbey when he left his old home at Lancaster, O. Speaking of the president he said:

"Talk about men not worrying about their work, the president takes the antelope. I was with him when it seemed as if Russia and Japan was going to get right at it again and chew up a few thousand men and gunboats. Worry him? Well, I guess not.

"He just says to me: 'Bus,' how's the young cattle on the range this year? Then we went down under the trees and I lit my pipe and we talked. He asked me all about his old neighbors out there in the west. The Thompson boys and their irrigation ditch, the Griswolds and their ranch, and all the others he used to know. Then we goes and takes a ride and a swim. Me, a measley stage driver and owner of a few head of cattle, and the president of these United States. He's just the same 'Teddy' we always took him for."

BERRY IS IDENTIFIED.

Dr. Swallow Says He Still Retains Some of the Principles of His Old-Time Faith.

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—William H. Berry, Democratic-Prohibition candidate for state treasurer, has been identified as a Prohibitionist by the Rev. Dr. Silas C. Swallow. Swallow said here today that he did not think there was any doubt of Berry's election and that "The Prohibitionists as well as the Democrats are all for him."

Then Swallow added: "Berry was our candidate for state treasurer about 20 years ago, but left us on the silver ticket. But he still retains many of his Prohibition principles." Democratic state campaign managers do not want to have it generally known that Berry was a Prohibitionist.

PEACE IN THE REPUBLIC.

Officials of the Big Steel Company Have Patched Up Their Differences.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—It is now officially stated that there will be no contest at the annual meeting of the Republican Iron and Steel Company this month unless something unforeseen happens. Alexis W. Thompson will continue as president of the corporation.

The differences that have existed among the directors have been patched up. A successor will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of P. L. Kimberly.

Another Panama Resignation.

PANAMA, Sept. 1.—Carl A. Storm, chief of the mechanical department of the canal zone, resigned today. It is reported that several changes will soon be made among the officials of the Panama railroad.

LOCAL MONEY TO CONSTRUCT PARKS

Fred Ingersoll to Erect Many Amusement Places With Pittsburgh Capital.

Encouraged by his brilliant success with his newest venture, Pittsburgh's Luna park, and profiting by his experience which has brought him both fame and fortune since his first modest effort in providing outdoor amusements, Manager Fred Ingersoll has had an almost limitless amount of Pittsburgh capital placed at his disposal to launch gigantic enterprises in the amusement line, not only in America, but the world over.

Locally, three acres will be added to the present site of Pittsburgh's Luna park and wonderful improvements made. Cleveland's Luna park is to be almost doubled, and Chicago is to have a great Luna resort. Pittsburgh money will also erect a winter Luna park in Mexico city, it is reported, that will outmarvel the splendors of the scions of old, while simultaneously a Luna park is to be established in Australia that will rise as a permanent monument to what Pittsburgh capital can do when applied by the master hand of an entertainer of nations.

CONDEMN THEIR MAYOR.

Atlanta (Ga.) City Councils Denounce Action of Official at Municipal Meeting in Toledo.

ATLANTA, GA., Sept. 1.—The city council this evening adopted resolutions condemning Mayor James G. Woodward for his conduct at the recent meeting of the League of American Municipalities at Toledo. The resolutions were passed by a vote of 19 to 2.

The resolutions declare that while Mayor Woodward was attending the convention in his official capacity, he appeared on the floor of the convention in a state of partial intoxication and made a spectacle of himself, bringing disgrace on the city and outraging the feelings and sentiments of its people, that this conduct is not typical of Atlanta and that his action is severely censured and condemned.

WILL HAVE A RECEPTION.

Washington Will Tender President Special Greeting on Return to the Capital.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—H. L. West, one of the commissioners of the District of Columbia, today notified President Roosevelt of the desire of the people of Washington to tender him a public reception upon his return here in recognition of his services in bringing about the Portsmouth conference to a successful termination.

The foreign messages of congratulations to President Roosevelt upon the successful termination of the peace conference are being received at the state department from Oyster Bay with instructions to prepare replies.

Will Abolish Martial Law.

WARSAW, Sept. 1.—It is said that Gen. Skallon, the new governor-general, intends to abolish martial law, normal conditions having been resumed.

JOHN FULTON MAY APPEAR

Man Whose Life or Death Is a Mystery Said to Be Here.

EXPECTED IN COURT

Strangely Breaks Silence at Long Intervals for the Past Thirty Years.

MOTHER'S ESTATE IS AT STAKE

Fiction as mysterious and weird as the mind of novelist ever conceived will fade by contrast with realism when John Fulton, who has alternately been grieved over as dead and welcomed as alive for the past 30 years, takes his stand in the orphans' court this morning to clear his identity, claim his share of his mother's estate and prove his identity by prominent citizens, among whom Andrew Fulton, delinquent tax collector, is expected to be a witness.

John Fulton was reported to have been in the city last night and his appearance in court is predicted at 10 o'clock this morning.

The mysterious fate of John Fulton was exclusively told in the columns of The Gazette on Sunday, July 23, of this year.

Wanted Husband Declared Dead.

Mary Fulton, his wife, had on the day previous appealed to Judge Over to have her husband declared legally dead in order that she might assume an estate left by his mother, but on evidence brought before the court this was delayed and a commissioner was appointed to go to Paterson, N. J., for the purpose of finding John Fulton and bringing him into court in September, if he could be found.

In 1877 Fulton, who then lived in the Eleventh ward and was a brass finisher, left the house to seek employment. He left in good humor and no quarrel or misunderstanding had taken place. Nothing was heard from him for five years.

Foul play was suspected and he was believed to be dead. Like one awakening from a prolonged sleep, a letter came from Parkers Landing in 1882, written by Fulton to his wife, announcing that business was dull and written in a vein as if he had been absent but a day. He was requested to return at once. Then he went to sleep again, apparently.

Found in Paterson, N. J.

Eight years later, in 1890, a friend of the family visiting Paterson, N. J., brought back the information that a John Fulton, formerly of Pittsburgh, was living in that city. Willam, a son, immediately went to Paterson to locate his father. He met the man, who denied the relationship, and declared he had met the John Fulton sought for while in Chicago.

Shortly after this advertisements were placed in the eastern papers asking John Fulton, formerly of the Eleventh ward, Pittsburgh, to communicate with Attorney W. A. Golden of this city. When the Paterson man answered, declaring that he was the only John Fulton who had lived in the Eleventh ward, Pittsburgh, in 1877.

The attorney sent him a long list of questions relative to his birth and life in order to establish identity. Then John Fulton went to sleep again.

Asked for a City Directory.

Several months later John Fulton of Paterson wrote to Attorney Golden, requesting an old city directory at any cost, declaring that it was so long since he had been in Pittsburgh that his recollection had become dimmed. No directory was sent.

On Friday, July 21, the day preceding Mrs. Fulton's appeal to the court to have her husband legalized as dead, John Fulton of Paterson wrote again, demanding the old directory. These facts led the court to order a full investigation before declaring the dead John Fulton a corpse, and if John Fulton appears this morning the court commissioner has evidently served his mission and a strange case of lapse of memory may be established.

TERROR OF BERRY PICKERS MEETS ITS DOOM AT LAST

YORK, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—"Old Reuben," a mammoth rattlesnake which has been the terror of huckleberry pickers on the South mountain for nearly 20 years, was killed yesterday by Henry Kump of Cashtown. The snake was almost seven feet long and at its thickest part measured six inches in diameter. Its tail bore 19 rattles and a button.

New Officer Goes to Work.

PHOTOS BACK THE THEORY

Pictures of Ryan and Dowd Show the Great Resemblance.

UNCLE SAM MAY ACT

Secretary of War Is Expected to Demand a Thorough Investigation.

REPORTS ARE IN HIS HANDS

That there is every reason to assume that Private Michael Ryan of Company C, First United States infantry, could have been mistaken for Private Dowd and murdered for revenge because of the killing of William H. Crowley by Dowd two years ago, is clearly shown in the pictures of the two men as they appear herewith. Possibilities for confusing the two men were even greater than these illustrations can convey.

These pictures were taken last July, about one month previous to Ryan's death. At that time Dowd was, and still is, a very sick man, and weighed 40 pounds less than when he shot Crowley two years ago. This loss of weight showed plainer in his face than elsewhere, and since his return to the arsenal he had rarely been seen on the streets and was known to the residents of the neighborhood as a man of much fairer face.

Ryan Often Mistaken for Dowd.

However, by placing the hand over the upper portion of each man's head, to remove any confusion because of different arrangement of the hair, it will be noted that the nose, mouth, eyes and general expression of each face is almost identical. With the regulation of fatigue uniform on each man and each wearing the same style hat, it can be seen how easily their identity could have become mixed, and how natural it was that previous to Ryan's death he was repeatedly spotted on the streets and called Dowd.

Dowd, whose face is now much more emaciated than it was when he incurred the enmity of the Crowley sympathizers, left last night for Washington to enter the war department hospital to undergo an urgent operation.

The county detectives are still working industriously on the murder mystery, and took up a clue yesterday that promises development.

Difficulties Caused by Delay.

Superintendent H. H. Robinson of the county detective force stated yesterday that the work of the men had become difficult because the case had been allowed to drag more than two weeks, and while he had always thought it worthy of the closest investigation he had not taken earlier action because he felt that it was a case for the city authorities, and did not care to encroach upon their domain until he had the assurance that they were dissatisfied to make an inquiry.

In all probability Uncle Sam will take up the investigation into the murder of Ryan where "Buck" Wallace and Police Inspector William J. Doyle left off, which was immediately after the latter viewed the remains.

Both Lieut. Kent Brewster of the arsenal and Dr. Fred S. Mucey, post surgeon, have made full reports of the polishing of Ryan to the war department.

Up to the Secretary of War.

These officers would not disclose the nature of their reports when asked yesterday, and announced that they could only be made public through the authority of the secretary of war. The impression prevails, however, that in the absence of police investigation these officers could give the department no information concerning the death. These matters the officers persistently refuse to discuss.

In the very few precedents of the nature which have come before the war department, cases where soldiers have been or who were thought to have been murdered by civilians, it has been the custom of the war department to allow the civil authorities to handle the case through their regular channels and to abide by the results.

There is no known precedent in American soil where a soldier, suspected of molar murdered and so reported by the coroner's jury, has not had his death thoroughly investigated by the civic authorities and the results filed in Washington.

Where Investigations Have Been Made.

However, instances have occurred on foreign soil where little investigation was made, and where the war department firmly demanded an investigation and held its own men to conduct one.

It is therefore believed by some of the best informed men on war department discipline that if the department does not secure a full and complete report covering the mysterious and unprecedented death of Private Ryan, it will send a special agent, who will be clothed with every authority and who will make an investigation that will be as thorough as the most competent and experienced man can make. Uncle Sam thinks a great deal of its soldiers and the death of one by foul means, if dealt by a known or secret enemy, will not be permitted to pass by unnoticed.

The reports of the officers of the arsenal have already gone to Washington, and it they are of the nature suspected they will undoubtedly receive the fullest attention of the secretary of war and action by the cabinet officer is expected almost hourly.

Happy Day for the Prisoners.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—Today being the anniversary of the accession to the throne of Sultan Abdul-Hamid II., his customary reception was attended by all the members of the diplomatic corps. The sultan ordered the release of 1,161 prisoners.

MANIAC SPREADS TERROR ABOUT THE CITY OF LORAIN

Madman Is Marching on the Town, Shooting at All He Meets and Burning Buildings on His Way.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

LORAIN, Sept. 1.—Peter Pitts, a maniac, is approaching Lorain, leaving a path of devastation and terror behind him. Armed with a 32-caliber revolver, he fires on all whom he meets. At Avon Beach, people fear to leave their homes. Doors are locked and barred. Pitts has already applied the torch to one farm house and fired on seven persons. He attempted to wreck the Toledo limited car on the Lake Shore electric line. He failed in an attempt to set fire to a second farm house, having been frightened away. Sheriff Salisbury, who is trying to head off the madman before he reaches the city, fears that murder will result.

Wednesday Pitts appeared at the home of George Heckel and fired twice at Mary Heckel. Neither shot took effect and she fled to safety. He was seen in various parts of the same section firing on farm hands, wayfarers and even people in their homes. At midnight Thursday he reappeared at the Heckel home. He had matches and piles of shavings about a corner of the house succeeded in getting it afire. The family did not discover the fire until too late, having only time to flee from the premises in their night clothes.

CHINESE BLUFF PROVES FAILURE

Boycott, Imposed to Scare Out a New Treaty, Is Now Being Lifted.

MR. WU AT THE BOTTOM OF IT

The boycott of American goods by the Chinese merchant guilds is being lifted, and will soon be a thing of the past. This is the information received by the department of commerce and labor from Minister Rockhill at Pekin. The bluff of Wu Ting Fang, that wily diplomat who learned draw poker among other accomplishments during his residence in this country, has been called by the United States, and Mr. Wu is throwing away his cards. Minister Rockhill has communicated with all the American consuls throughout the Chinese empire and they all report that the embargo upon American goods is being removed. It is predicted by the department of commerce and labor that when the annual trade reports are made up it will be found that American commerce in China has suffered but little from the boycott. What it has lost will be more than made up in the near future in the increased trade that will come to this country by the settlement of the Russian-Japanese war, and the development of the orient that will result from peace.

Several causes are contributing to the failure of the boycott. First and foremost is the demand for goods made in this country. The Chinese find they must have our wares and that to refuse to buy them works a greater hardship upon themselves than upon us. It is a well known fact that our foreign trade has never been fostered and cultivated as has that of other manufacturing nations. Our foreign sales, amounting to more than $1,500,000,000 annually, are due solely to the superiority of American manufactures. Every dollar's worth is sold strictly on its merits. Therefore, the Chinese find they must have those goods, and as a result the boycott is weakening. Another cause for the failure of the embargo is that the Chinese government, discerning its inability to force this country into a modification of the Chinese exclusion laws, has given instructions to all the governors of provinces and other officials to do all in their power to see that American goods are not discriminated against. This has had its effect and it will not be long until American commerce will have regained all that it may have lost.

It is pretty generally understood here that the whole purpose of the Chinese boycott was to frighten this country into signing a new treaty with China, by the terms of which the rigid exclusion regulations would be very materially modified. The movement was a bluff, and for a time appeared to be a strong one. Wu Ting Fang, former minister to this country, was credited with originating it, and nothing has developed to prove that this idea was erroneous. But the bluff failed. Negotiations which were pending between the state department and Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister, for a new treaty, were suspended. Secretary Root went off to Labrador on his vacation and the acting secretary of state left the negotiations just where they stood.

As further evidence of the feeling of this government, an intimation was indirectly conveyed to the Chinese government that the negotiations for a new treaty would not be resumed until this boycott of American goods was called off. This latter action evidently is having the desired effect. Since that was passed the reports from our representatives in China have been to the effect that the boycott was weakening and that it would probably soon be entirely off.

DR. H. M. GOEHRING CHASES BURGLAR FROM HIS HOUSE

Dr. H. M. Goehring of 317 Elliott street, Wilkinsburg, chased a burglar from his house early yesterday morning. Dr. Goehring and his family had been away from the house for several days. Upon returning early in the morning he heard a suspicious noise. Securing a revolver from a neighbor he returned in time to see the burglar jump from the rear porch. He fired one shot but missed the man. Several of Mrs. Goehring's furs had disappeared. In the hall was a bundle of wearing apparel and silverware, which had been left in the hurried escape.

DEFENSE RESTS IN TAGGART CASE

Accused Wife Steps from Stand After Five Days of Trying Ordeal.

TESTIMONY ALL IN AT LAST

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 1.—The defense in the Taggart divorce trial rested its case late this afternoon with the close of Mrs. Taggart's testimony. She had been on the stand since last Monday. In cross-examination this morning she denied she had ever corresponded with Gen. Miner with reference to court-martialing Taggart. She identified a bill for $916, contracted for board, lodging and incidentals while she, with her two boys and her niece, Miss Shields, stayed for three months at the Continental house in San Francisco. Among the items was one for $4 for wine, which she said she used in entertaining friends.

Letters were introduced which had been written by Mrs. Taggart to her husband during the fall and winter of 1902, showing the love and devotion she then had for him. On redirect examination, Mrs. Taggart told of sending a cablegram from Orrville, O., to Capt. Taggart at Manila, stating that she and her mother were going abroad and would go to Manila by way of the Suez canal. She also said she wrote frequently to the captain when he was away from home, as did Culver after he was old enough to write. This custom of regular correspondence was continued, she said, until the time of the trouble at Fort Leavenworth.

Mrs. Taggart was closely questioned regarding Capt. Taggart's drinking habits. She said he was always able to go on duty every day and his drinking never interfered with his work. He frequently looked wild, as though on the verge of delirium tremens, and she feared him.

At 3:35 o'clock Mrs. Taggart left the stand, after having been on continuously since Monday morning. The deposition of Ida Preston Engle, employed as a nurse for Mrs. Culver from July, 1903, to the time of Mrs. Culver's death, was read. She told of the captain's calls on Mrs. Taggart and the children in San Francisco after the separation.

When the deposition had been read, Attorney Smyser said: "Reserving the right to introduce Capt. Taggart's efficiency record, this closes our case."

The deposition of Mrs. J. A. Moore was again taken up and parts of it were read in rebuttal of the testimony of Mrs. Emma Lytle, the negro servant.

Did you, Mrs. Moore, ever hear Emma say anything of Mrs. Taggart's conduct?

Yes, she said some of her conduct was just awful.

What instances did she relate?

She said that the conduct of Mrs. Taggart with a stranger on the train going from San Francisco to Chicago one time was such as to attract the attention of the whole car, and made one of the lady passengers remark: "If that woman (Mrs. Taggart) isn't that man's wife, she ought to be."

What else did she see on the train?

She saw Mrs. Tagkart holding the man's hands on the car platform.

CAUSES BROTHER'S ARREST ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

Large Share in an Estate Said to Have Been Wasted Through Misrepresentation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Charged with forging the signatures of his brothers to mortgages and drafts which enabled him to draw on the funds of his father's estate, of which he and a brother were administrators, Robert Wuerz, 24 years old, was arrested tonight.

The warrants for Wuerz's arrest were taken out by Carl Wuerz, a brother, who came to Chicago from New York several days ago, when he heard that more than $10,000 of an estate of $42,000, left to seven brothers, had been misappropriated by Robert.

Betting on horse races is said to have led the prisoner into trouble. The will was probated in Danbury, Conn., where Wuerz is said to have been prominent in several secret societies. He was a member of several clubs in New York. Wuerz lived for a time in an apartment building at Forty-seventh street and Broadway, New York city.

WABASH OPTIONS LAPSE.

Greene County Survey Is Abandoned. Report of Lake Erie Extension Southward.

A telegram from Washington, Pa., last night stated that options secured for the Gould line south from Pittsburgh through Washington and Greene counties for the rights-of-way, have been allowed to lapse. It was also said that the construction material placed in Washington two years ago by contracting firms for the purpose of taking up the construction has been removed this week.

What this means can only be guessed at, inasmuch as the Greene county line is now a portion of the Little Kanawha syndicate, and no word as to the future of this can be obtained until the return of Joseph Ramsey, Jr., from Europe next week. It has been said by George J. Gould and F. A. Delano, of the Wabash, that the Greene county route will not be used, and whether the Little Kanawha syndicate intends also to abandon the line is not known.

One of the rumors is that the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie intends to extend its Monongahela division southwestward from Brownsville through Greene county to a connection with the projected Little Buchannon & Northern road as surveyed in the vicinity of Morgantown, but no official word can be secured in this regard. It is reported that surveys have been made for a portion of this extension.

DENVER GREETS G. A. R.

Mayor Issues a Warning to Restaurant Keepers Not to Charge Exorbitant Rates.

DENVER, Sept. 1.—Thousands of visitors, attracted by the thirty-ninth annual encampment of the G. A. R., which will open on September 4, poured into Denver today, and the streets tonight presented an animated appearance.

More than 150,000 visitors are expected. Should it become necessary, a proclamation will be issued by the city authorities calling on citizens to throw open their homes to the city's guests. Mayor Speer has issued a warning to proprietors of eating houses that the usual price for service must prevail.

ROBBERS ATTACK AND CHLOROFORM LADY

SHARON, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Mrs. Evan Jones was attacked by a stranger at their house last night, chloroformed and left unconscious on the cellar floor. The woman went to the door in response to a rap. A stranger asked her for something to eat. She started for the cellar and he followed her. As she was leaning over a bread box she was seized from behind and a cloth saturated with chloroform placed over her face. Some time later Mrs. Jones was found and a physician called to revive her. The two robbers ransacked the house, getting $20.

STRENUOUS EFFORTS TO ESCAPE OFFICERS

HAVANA, Sept. 1.—Walter F. Logue and W. H. Huggins, both of Youngstown, O., escaped from the quarantine station to which they had been sent on arrival from New Orleans. Later they appeared at the American legation and asked for protection against the requirement that they remain in quarantine five days, alleging that the food and accommodations were bad. The legation detained the two men and notified the officers, who promptly took them to the Trigoonia station.

DELUGE OF DEATH FROM BROKEN LADLE

One Killed, Others Hurt in an Accident in a Donora Steel Mill.

DONORA, PA., Sept. 1.—One man was killed and three were seriously injured at the open hearth mill of the Carnegie Steel Company here this afternoon, by the bursting of a mammoth ladle filled with molten steel. The ladle was a new one and was being tested.

THE DEAD:

ARTHUR QUACKENBUSH, 26 years old, a craneman, home in Philadelphia; almost covered by the dying metal, and so fearfully burned that he died within a few minutes.

THE INJURED:

HARRY PHILLIPS of Monongahela; right leg fractured; taken to the hospital at Monongahela.

JOHN M'GOVEN, frightfully burned; not expected to live.

ALBERT GOHM, burned about the arms, shoulders, back and legs; recovery doubtful.

Quackenbush, McGoven and Gohm were close to the ladle when it exploded and had no chance to escape. Phillips was near a window, and when he heard the report of the explosion he instinctively leaped through it to the ground, breaking his leg in the fall. Several others in the mill received slight burns, but were able to go to their homes after they had been attended to by a physician.

At the same mill this forenoon Mike Shannick, a laborer, was killed by falling 40 feet from a scaffold.

DEAN PUPILS' CELEBRATION.

Committees Will Meet Today to Complete Arrangements for the Event.

The former Dean pupils of the Pittsburgh Central High school will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Fifth avenue High school building. Reports of committees will be heard and additional committees on the semi-centennial celebration will be appointed. The central board of education committee on the semi-centennial will meet today at the same time and the Dean Pupils' association will act in conjunction with that committee, of which W. S. McCutcheon, representative of the board from the Minersville district, is chairman, and also a member of the Dean Pupils' association. An interesting program is being arranged, including both an afternoon and evening meeting, the former to be held probably on the new Magee High school site on Forbes street. A banquet is proposed for the evening, at which the presence of several well-known speakers is assured.

Dean pupils who have not already done so, are requested to send in their addresses to the secretary, Miss Mary Wilkins, of 75 Howard avenue, Avalon. George T. Fleming is the chairman of the committee on speakers and program.

YELLOW JACK IN NEW YORK.

Passenger from Panama Has Disease and a Number of Others Are Suspected.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Henry R. Wardell, an American employed by the Panama railroad as a boiler maker, is seriously ill tonight, with yellow fever, in the quarantine hospital on Swinburne island. He arrived yesterday as a first cabin passenger on the Panama railroad steamer Havana from Colon. He was one of six passengers taken from the ship because they had elevated temperatures when the quarantine doctors went aboard for the customary inspection.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.—Yellow fever report to 6 p. m.—New cases, 39; total to date, 1,453; deaths, 4; total, 281; new foci, 10. A signed statement by the surgeons in charge states that the disease here is fully conquered.

GET BIGELOW POLICIES.

First National Bank, Which He Robbed, Will Secure His Life Insurance of a Half Million.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Sept. 1.—All right and title to the insurance policies on the life of G. Bigelow have been acquired from Mrs. Bigelow by the First National bank, of which Bigelow was formerly president.

The policies, which are 29 in number and have a face value of over $550,000 and a cash surrender value of about $50,000, will, it is expected, be bid in by the First National at the sale of the Bigelow properties, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

HONEST FARMER BOY FINDS AN OLD WOMAN'S BIG ROLL

FRANKLIN, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—A boy from the country district picked up a greasy-looking bundle in front of the court house today and it proved to be a roll of bills amounting to $1,385, wrapped in cheese cloth. Half an hour afterwards he came across the owner, an old woman, who had just sold her farm. He surrendered his find, declining a proffered reward, and left without giving his name.

PFISTER MAKES GENERAL DENIAL OF CORRUPTION

Milwaukee Capitalist Issues a Statement in Reply to Grand Jury's Charges.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—Charles F. Pfister, the capitalist, who was indicted three weeks ago by the grand jury on the charge of having stolen $14,000 which had been placed in his hands by the Wisconsin Rendering Company, will make public tomorrow a statement showing the manner in which the $25,000 which he had held for the company was disbursed.

After the indictment was returned the president of the Rendering Company denied that Mr. Pfister had misappropriated any of its money and since then the company has made full payment on notes held against it by Mr. Pfister, without offering any counter claim. The intimation, however, has been circulated that the money, if not misappropriated, was used for corrupt purposes by Mr. Pfister.

Mr. Pfister's statement showing the disbursements is as follows:

On July 19, 1897, Mr. F. C. Gross, president of the Wisconsin Rendering Company, placed to my hands $25,000. This money was paid out by me as follows: August 6, 1897, to John J. Crilley, $5,000; August 7, 1897, to John J. Crilley, $3,000; October 27, 1897, to Miller, Noyes & Miller, $7,000; in 1897 and 1898, to F. C. Gross, $7,000; March 30, 1901, to First National Bank, account Wisconsin Rendering Company, $7,000. Total, $25,000.

All of these payments were made at the express direction of the officers of the Wisconsin Rendering Company, and in accordance with an agreement under which the money was left with me, and neither part nor interest in nor knowledge of any efforts made by any one to secure the garbage contract referred to in the indictment against me, or to secure the work to be done at the Rendering Company's plant, or at any other place. I acted merely as a depository to accommodate the parties interested, received no compensation and know nothing about the items going to make up the amounts paid to Mr. Crilley or any other person. There was never a suggestion that this money or any part of it was to be used for any corrupt or unlawful purpose, or to replace money which had been so used.

MAN JUMPS INTO RIVER TO GO TO CINCINNATI, O.

A well-dressed man caused excitement on the Monongahela wharf at noon yesterday by walking into the river, apparently intending to commit suicide. A steamboat man caught him and turned him over to an officer, who sent him to Central station. There he gave his name as W. N. Miller and his address as the Smith block in Sixth street. He would only say he wanted to go to Cincinnati. After a time he was released on a forfeit to answer to a charge of disorderly conduct this morning.

DEAD HUSBAND'S MEMORY LANDS WIDOW IN JAIL

When the hour approached yesterday for the marriage of Victoria Wolowiec, who has been a widow but a week, the memory of her very late husband came strongly upon her and she demanded of her intended No. 2, M. Kaslowsky, that he give her more time to mourn his predecessor. No. 2 demanded in turn that she return the wedding clothes and ring that he had given her. He alleges that she refused. He swore out a warrant before Alderman Lang of Allegheny for her arrest on a charge of false pretense and she was taken to jail.

PUTS ARCANUM IN A FERMENT

Speakers Declare in Convention That Condition of the Order Is Deplorable.

HOPING FOR A SETTLEMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Sept. 1.—The supreme council of the Royal Arcanum held a brief secret session today. The hearing of the protesting members was continued. E. B. Leonard of Warren, O., addressed the meeting, deprecating the reflections that had been cast on the supreme council. Since their action, concerning retiring at Atlantic City, he said, the entire membership of the order was in a ferment as to the present condition of affairs, but despite this he hoped a settlement would be reached without resorting to the legal phase.

Mr. Leonard indorsed the recommendation made yesterday by Edwin Hobden of Baltimore that option "A" of the new table of rates, with the attained age clause stricken out, be made operative by the supreme council. He represented in a pathetic manner the condition of many of the old men of the order who are unable to meet the assessments under the new rates. He represented Ohio as willing to submit to further assessment if necessary, and to stand loyally by the supreme council if only they could be satisfied that the best interests of the order was being considered.

James F. Lewis of Vincennes, Ind., indorsed the position taken by Mr. Leonard as to option "A" of the new table of rates. Chairman S. M. Lindsley of New York next addressed the meeting, stating the anxiety of the supreme council to hear everything that could be said in the way of argument why the rates adopted at Atlantic City by the supreme council should be rescinded. He said in part:

"The supreme council is in a receptive condition and if sufficient conclusive arguments are shown the supreme council is ready to rescind. The supreme council is anxious to make its ultimate decision absolutely correct."

Many delegates to the conference are of the opinion that the only basis of a settlement of the controversy now on is the adoption of the "Table A" or its equivalent.

W. A. McCabe of Brooklyn, in speaking for the protestants, urged that any redress that might be had, should come from the supreme council and not through the law courts, although success in the court, Mr. McCabe thought, was certain.

The speaker also suggested that the new rates be not applied until the next supreme council meeting in May. In the meantime, the protestants should be given the data in possession of the supreme council. If the supreme council is not then convinced, Mr. McCabe thought the members of the order would have to submit to the increase in rates.

Abe Landis of Nashville, Tenn., an expert fraternal actuary, replied to the arguments of the protestants that the rates be rescinded and said on the ground of sentiment as much consideration should be shown the young man with family depending on him as to the old man. Sentiment of the protestants, he said, was not crystallized around any one remedy and rescinding now would result in confusion. He was in favor of "Table A" and one other option known as the table of regular rates, two in all. So far as the contractural rights were concerned they had been violated time and again prior to 1902.

Supreme Regent Howard C. Wiggins, speaking of the situation this evening, said there was undoubtedly a kindlier feeling on both sides now than when the meeting opened.

Mr. Landis, in his address tonight, cited statistical information to prove that the rates asked were based on integrity and justice. He indorsed them, but said they should have been put out with better explanation. He will later submit a plan to the committee and the supreme council. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

CASES FOR CORONER.

One Man Falls Off Roof, and One Is Struck by a Crane—Verdict Rendered.

Richard Johnson, a laborer, living at 1222 Clark street, died yesterday at the Passavant hospital. He fell off a roof on August 21.

Michael Segavic of 2810 Carson street, was struck by a crane in the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company's mill yesterday morning, and died in the afternoon at the South Side hospital.

The coroner's jury brought in a verdict saying that the death of Elmer Hamilton, who was killed in a machine shop of the American Bridge Company at Ambridge, was accidental. Mr. Craven, who had helped to adjust Hamilton's crane, said the machine had always given him trouble when he formerly operated it, and did not work right on this occasion, causing Hamilton's death.

HIS CASE SUSPICIOUS.

New York Man Arested in the Frick Building.

Detective Rice arrested W. H. Shuman yesterday afternoon in the Frick building and locked him up in Central station as a suspicious person. Shuman lives at 56 West Ninety-seventh street, New York, and says he represents the National Cabinet Co., bureau of 53 Park Row, New York. His work here he says is for the Dodd Lee & Co. publishing house. The arrest followed Shuman's effort to have a contract cashed at the offices of a firm in the Frick building. The cashier was suspicious of the signature attached to the paper and told Shuman to call later. Then the cashier telephoned to detective headquarters. Shuman's record will be thoroughly investigated.

Smashed Toes Cause Lockjaw.

JEWELS STOLEN; BUTLER MISSING

Daughter of Cornelius N. Bliss Loses Heirlooms Valued at $8,000.

DUAL LIFE OF A SERVANT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

STAMFORD, CONN., Sept. 1.—When Miss Catharine A. Bliss, daughter of Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican national committee, returned a few days ago to her summer residence in New Canaan after a brief visit to one of the coast resorts, she discovered that her jewel case had been broken open and its contents removed. Fred Gehlke, her butler, has since disappeared. The value of the jewels, many of which were family heirlooms, is $8,000, but Miss Bliss attaches to them a large sentimental value. A detective has been working on the case ever since, and is looking for the butler.

Miss Bliss has spent the last four seasons in New Canaan. She entertained numerous relatives and other guests, and gave many house parties. Gehlke had been employed by Miss Bliss for four months. He was about 28 years of age of German birth, neat in appearance and it was remarked frequently that he was much more intelligent than the ordinary servant.

Gehlke asked for a leave of absence for a day or two after Miss Bliss returned, saying he desired to go to New York. No suspicion had attached to him up to that time. He has not been seen here since.

Residents in Locke avenue recall now that Gehlke was on friendly terms with a groom in another house, but when they met each other in the daytime neither ever gave any sign of recognition of the other. Other servants recall having seen them in earnest conversation at night. The theory has gained support from these stories that both were members of a band of thieves who may have had something to do with the other robberies in country houses.

The ceremony of signing the "treaty of Portsmouth" will be as quiet and unostentatious as possible. Both sides realize that for different reasons the treaty will not be popular in their respective countries. In Japan especially there is expected to be a great popular outcry.

"We know," said a member of the Japanese mission today, "that we are going home to stones and perhaps dynamite."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Mr. Hioki, in charge of the Japanese legation, was at the state department today and discussed with Acting Secretary Adee the recent events at Portsmouth. The subject of the seizure by the Japanese war vessels of two American merchantmen was mentioned and Mr. Hioki assured Mr. Adee that the Japanese government would do what was right in the matter. A cablegram has been sent to Minister Griscom at Tokyo apprising him of the reported seizures and requesting him to take steps to ascertain the facts.

KILLS HIMSELF KNEELING AT HIS MOTHER'S GRAVE

Goes to Cemetery to End His Life Because It Makes Least Trouble There.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Kneeling at the side of his mother's grave, in Rosehill cemetery, Harry L. Hoffman, who recently came from St. Louis, this afternoon shot himself to the temple, dying two hours later at a hospital. The suicide was witnessed by a throng of mourners returning from a funeral. Many rushed to the grave across which Hoffman lay. He died without regaining consciousness. The suicide left three letters and a will.

Two of the letters were sealed and were addressed to George D. Hoffman, a brother, and Public Guardian Alfred Speyer, Michigan, the third was addressed to the officers of the cemetery, expressing sorrow for causing them trouble, and begging that he be buried beside his parents.

The writer said the reason he ended his life in the cemetery was because he believed the inconvenience would fall lighter on the cemetery company than on anyone else.

FIRE SWEEPS CITY BLOCK.

Charles Benton Lumber Yard in Philadelphia Completely Destroyed. Loss Very High.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—Fire of unknown origin practically swept away the block bounded by Front, Water, Dickinson and Reed streets in the southeastern section of the city tonight. The greater part of the block was occupied by Charles Benton's lumber yard, containing 20,000 feet of lumber.

In addition, the loss includes a smaller lumber yard, owned by J. J. Hussey, a number of small dwellings and a stable belonging to Mr. Benton. The occupants of the dwellings were compelled to flee for their lives. The loss is estimated at $70,000, of which $50,000 is sustained by Mr. Benton.

UNCLE FINDS NEPHEW DEAD IN THE HOSPITAL

Had Left His Address and Asked to Be Notified, but the Policeman Messenger of Death Could Not Find Him.

Wolante Zantek sent his nephew, Stanislaus Tabaka, ill with typhoid fever, to the West Penn hospital a week ago yesterday. He paid for two weeks' maintenance and left his address. Yesterday Zantek went to see his nephew. The hospital authorities handed him $7 and said the boy was dead; had been dead two days. An autopsy had already been begun.

Zantek was very indignant because he had not been notified of the death of the young man, and told his story to Father Tomaszewski, rector of St. Stanislaus' church. The priest called up the hospital by telephone and was very severe in his strictures on the management.

Zantek lives at 2625 Penn avenue, in a house that sets back from the sidewalk, but is entered from Penn avenue. It is just six doors from No. 2 police station, which is at 2630 Penn avenue. The acting superintendent of the hospital, Assistant Superintendent Walker, last night admitted that the uncle had not been notified of the nephew's death, but said that, while he deplored the unfortunate occurrence, the management was not to blame.

"When the young man died," said Mr. Walker, "I told the police at No. 2 station and asked them to notify the relatives. In the case of ward patients it has always been the custom to ask the police at the nearest station to inform the relatives. It appears no light. Bostwick tells me that a policeman was sent out with the message for the young man's relatives. I having given the police the number of the house. The lieutenant says the policeman got a Polish woman of the neighborhood to assist him. They visited many families but could learn nothing of our patient's relatives, and the hospital was so notified. We are not allowed to keep a body more than 24 hours, and Tabaka died on August 31. At the end of 24 hours the doctors, having noticed symptoms not very common in typhoid fever, of which, however, the young man undoubtedly died, concluded to make an examination. One cut was made, the body was not mutilated and only a cursory examination was made, as it was decided about that time that perhaps the relatives might turn up. We regret very much that this has occurred, but we did everything we could to find the patient's relatives."

Zantek maintains that the hospital authorities, failing to find him by telephoning to the police, should have persisted, as he had paid for the boy's maintenance for two weeks, had said he would pay in advance again at the end of a fortnight, and even offered to pay $5 a day for a nurse, in case the delirious condition of Stanislaus made such an expenditure necessary. He said he was particular to leave his address and to request that he be notified, should his nephew die.

Tabaka was 23 years old and had been in America five years. Last March his father, brother and two other children returned to their birthplace in Russian Poland to remain, and Tabaka was only waiting until the war with Japan was over to return home. He feared being drafted into the army.

TWO CANDIDATES FOR CONTROLLER

Franklin P. Booth and W. E. Newlin Qualify for Republican County Primaries.

ANNOUNCEMENTS ALL MADE

Candidates can no longer quality to enter the Republican county primaries, to be held on September 16. Yesterday was the last day for making announcements. Chairman Thomas J. Ford kept the headquarters open until 8 o'clock last night.

The only additions to the list yesterday were Franklin P. Booth of the Twenty-second ward of Pittsburgh and W. E. Newlin of McKeesport. They qualified for the office of county controller. Mr. Booth is a merchant and has been prominent in city politics. Mr. Newlin is city solicitor of McKeesport. His announcement was a complete surprise.

Under the rules the candidates have until three days before the primaries to pay their announcement fee of $500. As the tickets have to be printed before that date, Chairman Ford will endeavor to secure an agreement from the candidates to make the payment about September 9. It is believed there will be no objection to the proposition.

The following are the men and the offices to which they aspire:

Judge of court of common pleas—James S. Young, Twenty-first ward, Pittsburgh. Register—Andrew S. Miller, Bellevue; Robert S. Routh, Fifth ward, Allegheny; R. E. Stone, McKeesport. Recorder—Robert K. Coebrane, Sixth ward, Allegheny; John A. Fairman, Second ward, Allegheny; Harvey A. Lowry, Nineteenth ward, Pittsburgh. Prothonotary—William B. Kirker, Bellevue. County treasurer—George Z. Hosack, Carnegie. Clerk of courts—William Dodds, Banksville; John A. Reed, Twentieth ward, Pittsburgh. County controller—W. E. Newlin, McKeesport; F. P. Booth, Twenty-second ward, Pittsburgh. County commissioner—Irvin K. Campbell, Ninteenth ward, Pittsburgh; Fred Goettmann, Jr., Allegheny; W. W. Murray, Bridgeville; Charles B. Price, Oakmont. Director of the poor—William H. Guy, Coraopolis.

Former Judge Elliott Rodgers returned to his home in Allegheny yesterday from Cape May. During the afternoon he conferred with John A. Fairman, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for recorder. Judge Rodgers says he feels certain Fairman will carry Allegheny and receive the nomination.

A petition was filed in common pleas court No. 1 by Thomas A. Ashford, Jr., John A. Sturm, Thomas J. Donahoe, James Bissatt and Joseph B. Wood, for the exclusive use of the name "United Voters' League." It was stated in the petition that it was the intention to name a full county ticket at the coming election.

WINDOW GLASS PLANTS START SEASON'S FIRE

Trouble Expected at Kane, Pa., and Lancaster, O., by the Burns People.

Three window glass factories were scheduled to start the season's fire at midnight last night under the Burns sliding scale, and in two of them there were signs of trouble from the opposition organization, headed by A. L. Faulkner. John A. Schwalm, secretary of L. A. 300, the Burns union, is at Kane, Pa., where the Pennsylvania Window Glass Company was to start its factory. Harry C. Rhodes, assistant secretary, went to Lancaster, O., to assist in starting the factory of the C. P. Cole Glass Company. The Pittsburgh Window Glass Company at Washington, Pa., was expected to resume without difficulty.

The factory of W. R. Jones & Co. at Morgantown, W. Va., which was to have started under the Burns scale, was shifted over to the new organization, and was expected to start at midnight.

Noel Joris, employed at the Johnston factory at Hartford City, Ind., has received a letter signed "Enemy" which reads: "If you go to work in Johnston's we'll fix your clock." The Johnston company's No. 1 factory will start September 15. Its No. 2 factory has been in operation for some time. J. R. Johnston, the head of the company, is also head of the National Association of Window Glass Manufacturers, which agreed to the sliding scale. In his bulletin No. 2 he says:

> There is no doubt but that money is being freely used by our opponents. This information is to the effect that a powerful interest has made specific offers of finals for each week a start is delayed. We urge every manufacturer to blow glass at the earliest possible moment. Don't sit quietly idle watching others make a struggle while you should and could be lending invaluable assistance. The national association and workers with whom the Cedar Point scale was signed want every factory in operation. Therefore, draw your conclusions as to whom money will be paid.

NEW CHARTER WANTED; MORE PROTESTS FILED

Traction Race in City and County Keeps Up Its Pace in All Directions.

The Whitehall Street Railway Company is the latest to apply for a charter. Its incorporators are Robert P. Cunningham, George B. Woodford, James Milholland, Joseph Makary and William Scheli, Jr. Mr. Milholland is an engineer and Mr. Scheli an attorney.

The route named is to start at Fair Haven station on the Castle Shannon in Baldwin township, and run in a southerly direction along the township road for 2,500 feet; thence along Wyman's run, through the properties of Brehm, Bennett, Woodford, Kuhl and others, to a point near Whitehall on the Brownsville road; thence to Lick run and along Lick run to Curry.

On Thursday underlying companies of the Pittsburgh Railways Company filed the following protests against the pending applications for fording street railway charters: Protest of Bellefield Street Railway Company vs. Shadyside Street Railway Company; Bates Street Railway Company vs. Shadyside Street Railway Company; Bellefield Street Railway Company vs. Bayard Street Railway Company, Central Passenger Railway Company vs. Pittsburgh & East End Street Railway Company; Brereton Avenue Street Railway Company vs. Atlantic & Baum Street Railway Company.

The ground of these protests is that the companies applying for charters would infringe upon routes claimed by the protesting companies.

PROMOTIONS ARE MADE OF CARNEGIE STEEL MEN

Several changes were announced yesterday in the sales department of the Carnegie Steel Company. John E. Woods of Cincinnati succeeds W. D. H. Totten, resigned; A. M. Harper becomes manager of sales in the Pittsburgh territory, and the following assistants to S. A. Benner, general manager of sales, are appointed: William P. Siebert, assistant general manager of sales, in charge of rail and billet division; William G. Clyde, assistant general manager of sales, in charge of hoop and bar division; John C. Neale, assistant general manager of sales and structural engineer, in charge of structural and plate division.

TO PAY $600,000 FOR METERS

Director Bigelow Says This Sum Will Be Spent to Measure Water Supply.

C. H. HARRISON PROMOTED

"There are $500,000 in the bond fund for meters, and this amount will be spent for that purpose. We will soon purchase more meters. There were 5,000 meters in the first lot we purchased, which cost $50,000, and we will soon need more. The plumbers' strike will not stop us putting in more meters, neither will opposition from any other source," said Director Bigelow yesterday.

"I have not taken up the plumbers' strike yet, but it will be settled satisfactorily." The director treated lightly the opposition of Controller Larkin to meters. Director Bigelow said:

"Look at the Thirty-seventh ward. The water supply has been metered for years and the residents use as much water as they did before they had meters. Meters do not stop the use of water, but they do stop the waste of water.

Claims Rates Will Be Reduced.

"A minimum water rate will be charged for meters, and this rate will probably make the water bill for the average household smaller instead of larger with the same amount of water actually used and not wasted. The mills and factories will probably have to pay a good deal more than they do now for water as many of them do not pay now what they should. Some of them who pay only $500 a year now will probably have to pay $5,000. The householder will save in water rent under the meter system, while the manufacturer will have to pay more. Mr. Larkin is entirely wrong in his theory that meters cause people to use less water and, therefore, breed disease and death. There are no records or proofs to substantiate such a statement as that."

The director avoided any discussion of the water extension problem which is a disturbing factor in the city administration just now, and the cause of dissension between the director and the controller. Mr. Bigelow objects to the controller's project of using filtration bond money for water extension, preferring another bond issue instead.

Harrison Is Made Superintendent.

Director Bigelow returned yesterday morning from a month's vacation spent in the New England states. The latter part of his vacation was spent at Lenox, Mass., near which is the country home of George Westinghouse.

When he returned Director Bigelow promoted Charles H. Harrison from acting superintendent of the bureau of highways and sewers to superintendent of the bureau, giving him the same salary as his predecessor, E. G. Nicewaner, $333 a month, which is at the rate of $4,000 a year. Harrison was formerly an assistant superintendent in the bureau at a salary of $1,800 a year, and was made acting superintendent on the first of August when Nicewaner was removed.

DR. HERBERT F. SILL WILL COME TO "TECH"

Princeton and Carnegie Institution Man to Be Instructor in General Chemistry in the Big School.

The appointment of Dr. Herbert F. Sill, a research assistant for the Carnegie institution of Washington, D. C., as instructor in general chemistry in the school of applied science of the Carnegie Technical schools was announced yesterday.

Dr. Sill was born in 1872 at Geneseo, N. Y., was graduated from Princeton as a bachelor of science in 1894 and received master of science degree two years later. For four years he was instructor in analytical chemistry at Princeton. He sudied for a year at Goettingen university, Germany, and then returned to Princeton and taught for two years. He went back to Germany and spent a year and a half at the University of Leipsig, which bestowed upon him the degree of doctor of philosophy last December. He has been connected with the Carnegie institution at Washington since April 1.

The committee on technical schools also awarded yesterday six contracts for equipment—mainly drafting room supplies. The successful bidders were: G. A. Connor & Co., Kurtz, Langbein & Swartz, B. K. Elliott & Co., and G. L. Kopp & Co., all of Pittsburgh; Frederick Post & Co., Chicago, and A. L. Bemis, Worcester, Mass.

WATER IS TURNED INTO BIG SOUTH SIDE MAIN

Will Be Released Today to Give Relief to Residents of the Twentieth Ward.

Supt. A. B. Shepherd said last night that water from the downtown main, supplied from Highland reservoir No. 1, had been turned into the big 50-inch South Side main and that today the gate would be opened at Negley and Penn avenues and the water turned into the 20-inch main line leading to the Baum Grove and Friendship park districts in the Twentieth ward.

Mr. Shepherd said the water was turned into the South Side main yesterday, early in the day, and as soon as a sufficient supply has accumulated in this main the residents of the districts where the shortage exists, will get the benefit of it. A 36-inch line connects the South Side main with the downtown main. The connection was made with the downtown main from the No. 1 reservoir because reservoir No. 2 would not furnish pressure to send the water to the high points in the Twentieth ward.

REPORT MAY BE NEAR.

Rumor Is Current That Auditors of Defunct State Bank Will Release Funds at Last.

Attorney D. M. Miller, who represents John F. Steel as receiver of the defunct State Bank of Pittsburgh in Bloomfield, said yesterday that he has hopes of the auditors filing their report on Monday and at last untying the funds which the receiver is ready to disburse to the depositors.

It is over 20 months since the bank failed and about 13 months since the receiver's report was filed. Attorneys Leroy B. Wolfe and Albert Miller of Harrisburg, auditors appointed by the Dauphin county court, have in the meantime been preparing their report. Until this was filed there could be no distribution of the funds and upwards of 1,000 people, many of them poor, have been kept from getting their share of the money due them by this delay.

MR. PETTIGREW RETURNS.

Former United States Senator Back in Republican Party After Renegade Career.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Former Senator Richard F. Pettigrew of South Dakota who bolted the Republican convention at St. Louis in 1896 and espoused the cause of free silver as a Populist, has returned to the Republican party. He is supporting the campaign of Senator Gamble of his state for re-election. There is at present a bitter fight on between Senator Kittredge and Senator Gamble.

According to reports from the west, Senator Gamble has issued a formal interview declaring that Kittredge is in alliance with the railroad interests and therefore is trying to prevent Senator Gamble's return to the senate because Gamble is with the president in support of railroad rate legislation.

ROMANCE LURKS IN SOCIETY ITEM

Wedding of Miss Blanche MacCalla to Nathaniel Naylor Was Runaway Match.

ALL FORGIVE HAPPY COUPLE

MACCALLA - NAYLOR—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen D. MacCalla of Philadelphia have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Blanche Emelie MacCalla to Nathaniel Shannon Naylor of Pittsburgh, on Monday, August 14.

Behind this formal society note, which appeared in Tuesday's evening newspapers, there lurks a romance which is still a live topic among the friends of the two young people most interested.

Nathaniel Shannon Naylor is wire chief of the Cedar exchange of the Bell Telephone Company, and for several years past has resided at a boarding house at 1006 Cedar avenue, Allegheny.

The first intimation of the wedding, which took place over three weeks ago, was given at the Cedar avenue house last Saturday, Mr. Naylor having returned the day before from his vacation. There was a photograph of Miss MacCalla in his room and he informed his friends there that Miss MacCalla was now Mrs. Naylor. They laughed at him, but he informed them that he was on the eve of his departure for the station to meet his bride. He went to the station, where he met both his bride and her mother, Mrs. Stephen D. MacCalla of Philadelphia. Mrs. MacCalla is well known here, having friends in Pittsburgh and Sewickley and she is still in the city visiting her friends.

The announcement to Mr. Naylor's local friends did not create any greater furore than it did at Woodbury, N. J., when it was announced yesterday. The following narrative of the event was received last evening from the Philadelphia news bureau of The Gazette:

Miss MacCalla first became acquainted with Mr. Naylor a year ago, when she was visiting in Pittsburgh. He was attracted from the start by her beauty and charming personality. He came several times to Philadelphia to see her, and though the fact was not announced, they became engaged several months ago. The young couple's wish to be married at an early date met with the disapproval of Miss MacCalla's parents.

A few weeks ago, however, she again went to Pittsburgh on a visit to relatives, and there she yielded to her lover's demand that they be married despite her family's objections. Then she returned to Philadelphia. He accompanied her and came to Woodbury, where his stepbrothers had been for more than a month. A week after his arrival arrangements for a quiet wedding were made.

At Woodbury the Rev. William Heakes pledged to secrecy, consented to perform the ceremony. He is the rector of an Episcopal church in Wellsboro, Pa. When they arrived they registered at the hotel and were at once taken to a reception room on the second floor, which had been decorated with flowers. Frederick Heakes of New Orleans, a brother of the clergyman, was admitted to the ceremony, which was performed under a bower of white roses at the stroke of noon.

After the ceremony Naylor went to Atlantic City and told his step-father of his marriage. It had been intended to keep the fact a secret from the bride's family, but the stepfather insisted that they be told at once. There were many tears and apologies from the young woman when she announced her secret to her parents before she finally secured their forgiveness.

PRICE OF STRUCTURAL STEEL RAISED $2 A TON

Manufacturers Agree on a Base of $1.70 Which Has Already Gone Into Effect.

To the surprise of all but the manufacturers interested, the price of structural steel was raised yesterday $2 a ton. The raise was decided upon at a meeting of manufacturers Thursday and was put into effect at once.

This brings the base price, Pittsburgh, to $1.70 the 100 pounds or $34 a ton. It has been only about a year since the market prices were about $8 a ton lower than this figure and business was not to be had at any price.

The demand for structural shapes of all kinds has been extremely heavy and the mills are crowded to their capacity for three months or more to come. There is now a struggle to get on the list in order to be supplied in turn.

The demand for structural shapes has been sufficient to cause large premiums to be paid in the last three weeks, as high as $8 a ton having been offered for some shapes by those whose contracts or plans demanded immediate deliveries.

While no warning of the coming advance had been made, it is taken as a natural development of the crowded market and there is no doubt as to the ability of the manufacturers to secure the new rate.

Fighting Negro Is Arrested.

Detective Charles Aymer and Special Officer Edward Dunn last night arrested Edward Jackson, colored, of Allegheny, at High street and Wylie avenue. Jackson has a bad reputation and has served two terms in the penitentiary. He was warned some time ago to stay out of Pittsburgh and when arrested last night put up a fierce battle before he was subdued. He is held as a suspicious person.

The Rev. Father O'Flynn, assistant to Rev. Father A. A. Lambing of St. James Roman Catholic church, Wilkinsburg, is at the East End hospital suffering from typhoid fever. His condition is said to be critical.

EMINENT ENGINEERS MEET TO DECIDE UPON THE CANAL

Will Take a Trip to Panama to Determine Whether Sea Level or Lock System Will Be the Best.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Eminent engineers, not only of this country but of Europe, met today to consider and recommend plans for the isthmian canal. The personnel of the consulting board created by the executive order of June 1 includes the following men:

Gen. George W. Davis, Alfred Noble, William Barclay Parsons, William H. Burr, Gen. Henry L. Abbott, Frederick P. Stearns, Joseph Ripley, Isham Randolph, all American engineers; Henry Hunter, nominated by the British government; Herr Eugene Tincauser, nominated by the German government; M. Guerard, nominated by the French government; M. Quellenez, consulting engineer Suez canal, and J. W. Welcker, nominated by the government of the Netherlands.

J. W. Welcker, appointed by the Netherlands, said:

"I understand that the sessions will continue through several weeks, and that before any decision is made we shall be taken to the isthmus to look over the ground. Of course, I do not know what sort of waterway will be selected, as it is difficult to prophesy the result of the deliberations of 14 engineers from different parts of the world.

"It is my opinion, however, that a lock canal would be sufficient for all commercial purposes, would cost much less and would be finished in about two-thirds of the time required for a sea level canal. The lock system would be able to take care of the world's commerce that would go through it. The Suez canal is through a level country and it is not analogous, for the Panama canal, if made sea level, would have to be cut through great rock that would entail much more expense. It would take, I think, about 16 or 12 years, while the lock canal would require about six or eight years."

MILL DISASTER ENDS FOUR LIVES

Fly Wheel Bursts in Tube Works, McKeesport, Causing Death and Disaster.

PROPERTY LOSS VERY HEAVY

Four men dead, one dying, a number injured and an enormous property loss was the result of the bursting of the main flywheel in the continuous mill of the National Tube works, McKeesport, yesterday. The victims are:

THE DEAD.

JOHN MASSUNG, aged 52, heater; 606½ Soles street.

JOHN FURMAN, aged 32, laborer.

JOHN RECHAL, aged 28, laborer.

MICHAEL PUSHARKO, aged 31, laborer.

THE INJURED.

JOHN CHAPPER, aged 37, of Jerome street; sprained back and bruises.

VICTOR RENSHAK, aged 24, of White street; bad gash in left knee and serious contusions of body.

THOMAS WELSH, cuts and contusions.

Great Financial Disaster.

While General Manager George G. Crawford refuses to estimate the financial loss, employes of the mill say the accident is one of the greatest disasters in the history of the plant. The cause of the accident is not definitely placed, but it is supposed to have been caused by a belt slipping off one of the pulleys connected with the flywheel engine. The engine then ran away, causing the flywheel to revolve with such rapidity that it burst.

Fragments of the wheel penetrated all parts of the continuous department, pieces weighing from 500 to 1,500 pounds being hurled through the air, one of them being found 100 yards away. The mill was completely wrecked.

The men who were killed were working near the flywheel pit, while the injured were employed farther away. When the engine started to run away the most experienced men in the mill made their way to places of safety, but the flywheel had burst before most of the employes knew what was happening.

Work of Rescue Begun.

A few seconds later the entire plant had suspended operations and thousands of men inside the yards gathered about the wrecked mill. At every step the rescuing party met with injured workmen groping their way out of the building, which was enveloped in blinding steam. Farther in the mill the bodies of the more seriously injured were discovered.

The bodies of the dead were found within a few feet of the wrecked flywheel. Pusharko's body was cut in halves by a section of the wheel and he was almost unrecognizable. Furman and Rechal had lost portions of their arms and legs, and their heads and faces were frightfully crushed. The work of identification was slow and had to be accomplished by means of work checks found in the pockets of their clothes. Massung's identity was established by a blood-soaked pay envelope taken from his trouser's pocket.

Whole City Was Aroused.

The news of the accident traveled throughout the city like lightning and special officers were sent to the mill to guard the entrances. They were almost compelled to use their maces on the frenzied foreign women who, with children in their arms and tugging at their dresses, endeavored to make their way into the plant in search of loved ones. Some of the men, fearing that their wives would be anxious about them, came out of the mill yard and held happy meetings with their families on the sidewalk.

Manager Crawford last night refused to discuss the accident, but stated that he expected to have the mill in operation again within a week or two.

The continuous mill was wrecked last winter in a similar manner, when one man was killed and four injured. The flywheel burst and the mill was demolished.

BOY PLAYS WITH ALCOHOL AND BECOMES A BONFIRE

Kenneth Leader of Duquesne Plays Joke on Young Friends and May Die.

While delivering a quart of alcohol from his father's store, Kenneth Leader, aged 12, son of William J. Leader of Duquesne, was perhaps fatally burned yesterday afternoon by the alcohol catching fire after a bottle was broken by other boys. In a spirit of play young Lader sprinkled some of the alcohol over several boy friends whom he met on the street, and a scuffle ensued in which the bottle was broken. The spirits saturated young Leader's clothes from the waist down. Then one of the boys struck a match and ignited the wet clothing, which burst into flames.

Leader ran up the street, yelling for help, with the blaze flaming out behind him. Within half a block of his home in Linden street he fell almost unconscious from pain and, rolling over several times in the grass, extinguished the fire. Officer William E. Ross carried him home. On the way the flesh and skin on his left leg fell off, and his right leg and the lower part of his body are severely burned.

Dr. C. S. Keyser attended him, and, if no complications arise to prevent his recovery, it will be several weeks before he will be able to walk, and he may be crippled permanently.

Library Opens Monday.

The Allegheny Carnegie library and music hall will be opened to the public on Monday after being closed since June 29. During the past two months workmen have cleaned and frescoed the interior of the building.

NEW BUTLER LINE WILL BE MODERN

High Speed Will Be Made by the Up-to-Date Cars on Proposed Electric Railway.

CONSTRUCTION IS STARTED

The work of constructing the new electric railway between Pittsburgh and Butler has been started and three "dented cities" can now be seen, one at Renfrew, one at Gibsonia and one at Valencia. These three points have been taken for bases for operation and the dirt has started to fly, since the line must be completed and cars in operation by April 1.

The new line will extend from Etna borough to the heart of Butler. The company is known as the Pittsburgh & Butler Street Railway Company. It has effected an arrangement with the Pittsburgh Railways Company by which the cars will continue downtown to a terminus at Liberty avenue and Sixth street.

In the equipment of this road the promoters to have the most modern interurban electric cars. They will be similar to those in operation in other sections of the country, being long and heavy, with cross-seats and a middle aisle and a smoking compartment.

High speed will be made on the new road. A schedule of two hours between Butler and Pittsburgh will be maintained. The new road will itself be about 32.9 miles long and the distance from Etna to Sixth and Liberty will bring the total distance up to about 38 miles. On the country line 30 miles will be built on private right of way secured for the railway enabling the company to make fast time. Only in this way would it be possible to maintain a 30-mile-an-hour schedule, since the city end of the run must be made more slowly.

The railway will have its own power plant, etc. The location of this has not yet been determined. The road will be built at first as a single track line with many passing sidings.

The officers of the company are: John C. Reilly, president; George K. Tener, vice president; George Heard, secretary and treasurer; Charles Gibson, assistant secretary; Hudson F. Layton, chief engineer, and C. A. Gilfillan, consulting engineer.

The company has been capitalized at $1,500,000 and has an issue of bonds of the same amount. These bonds bear 5 per cent. interest and run for 30 years. They have been placed by the Pittsburgh Trust Company, which company serves as trustee of the mortgage guaranteeing the bonds. The work of construction is under the supervision of the trust company and it is proposed to make the line in every way the most complete, safe and modern electric road in the state.

TO PREACH ON LABOR.

Presbyterian Clergymen Will Devote Sermons to Workingmen, While Others Are to Discuss Peace Treaty.

In accord with the request of the department of church and labor of the Presbyterian church, many local ministers of that denomination will devote at least one sermon tomorrow to labor and Labor day. Other sermons will be devoted to a discussion of the successful peace negotiations.

The Bethel Lutheran congregation of Allegheny will tomorrow observe the dedication of their new building, which was recently purchased from the First Congregational church, at Manhattan and Franklin streets. Special services will be held morning, afternoon and evening.

The Rev. I. A. Barnes of the Second Methodist Protestant church and the Rev. J. C. Broomfield of the Fourth Methodist Protestant church, will bid their congregations farewell tomorrow night. The former goes to St. Marys, W. Va., and the latter to Fairmont, W. Va.

A union prayer service will be held in the Sixth United Presbyterian church, North Highland avenue, tomorrow morning, for the benefit of outgoing missionaries. The Rev. Dr. Charles R. Watson will preside.

The Rev. W. R. Evans of Jackson, O., will preach in the Oakland Welsh Presbyterian church tomorrow. The church has been closed for some time, owing to the serious illness of the pastor, the Rev. Thomas R. Thomas.

A religious service for labor organizations will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in Schenley park under the direction of the Rev. S. Edward Young of the Second Presbyterian church. Special music will be provided and representatives of all labor organizations are expected to attend.

SEWER TIES UP TRAFFIC.

The One That Flooded Shingiss Street Breaks in Fifth Avenue.

Contractor James H. McQuade had a large force of men at work yesterday repairing the break in the six-foot sewer in Fifth avenue at Elm street, which broke Thursday night. The break extends under the street car tracks and interrupted the running of cars in Fifth avenue on the citybound track until a cross-over switch was put in. The sewer is the same that broke in Shingiss street a couple of months ago and caused serious damage to property.

It is said to be 40 years old and to be only about six inches in thickness. Most of the sewers in the downtown section of the city are old and said to be in much the same condition as the Fifth avenue sewer.

Woman's Health

Every woman may be attractive. Bright eyes, pink cheeks and red lips are her nature-given right. A sallow skin, lack of animation, low spirits and weak nerves may be avoided by the use of Beecham's Pills, a remedy that well deserves the confidence of every woman. Again and again they have proved to be invaluable at those recurring times when so many women feel debilitated and suffer from nervousness, headache and depression. OFFICE OF THE CONTROLLER OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30, 1905.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this office until 12 o'clock m. Wednesday, September 6, 1905, for building the superstructure and masonry of a steel through plate-girder highway bridge, to replace old iron truss bridge (No. 6 over) Thompsons Run at Penn avenue crossing in Turtle Creek, borough. Girder to be 60 feet extreme length.

Also for reflooring bridge No. 2 over Little Deer creek.

Also for filling approaches to bridges No. 5, McLaughlins Run, and No. 10, Moxton Run.

All contractors before submitting bids should visit and examine the sites of proposed work, to ascertain the conditions and requirements in each case.

Bids for superstructure, reflooring and approach filling shall each be in lump sum. Bids for masonry shall be by the cubic yard in place, prices to include excavating, pumping, shoring, coffer-dams, etc.

OFFICIAL—ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

Bidders must bid separately for masonry and superstructure.

Allegheny county will furnish the cement bonded on cars at any railroad depot in the cities of Pittsburgh or Allegheny, the contractor to pay the freight.

Each proposal to be addressed to the county commissioners and indorsed "Proposal for Bridge Masonry," "Bridge Superstructure," "Reflooring" and "Approach Filling." As the case may be, each proposal to be accompanied by a bidder's bond with two sufficient sureties, in the amount of the bid.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

The party to whom the contract is awarded shall give bond, with two sufficient sureties, or the bond of a surety company, to double the amount of his bid, conditioned on the faithful performance of the contract.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of bond obtained at the office of Charles Davis, County Engineer.

There is enough of mystery about the death of Private Ryan at the arsenal to warrant the investigation being made by the county detectives and that contemplated by the national authorities. It is undisputed the soldier's death was caused by chloral poisoning. It is easy to call it a case of suicide, but if it was so the police might have learned where Ryan procured the drug. No evidence has been produced to show the man was addicted to the use of chloral and his condition when examined for re-enlistment did not indicate necessity for its use. The case has not been satisfactorily handled and though valuable time has been lost, a thorough investigation is called for. Suspicion of murder is too serious a matter to be dismissed with the wave of a weary policeman's hand.

Some time will be required for the isthmian canal commission and the consulting board of engineers to examine all of the data and decide on the level at which the canal is to be built. A sea level canal, with one tidal lock, will cost several millions more than a canal with two or four locks, but will be somewhat cheaper in maintenance. It is a question in mathematics and finance that will call for the best judgment of the eminent engineers employed to decide it.

Director Bigelow promises the placing of water meters shall be pushed with increased vigor. This is to be hoped for. The entire service should be metered before filtration is begun, so that waste of water may be stopped. With the service metered the filtration plant should be ample for years to come; without it would soon prove inadequate. It is not a question of limiting necessary or wholesome use of water, as City Controller Larkin contends. The experience of Wilkinsburg and the Turtle Creek valley with meters readily demolishes the restriction bugaboo.

It is in state politics only, when begging for Republican votes for Berry, the Democrat, that the Post masks its antipathy to everything Republican. While kings, diplomatists, the foreign and domestic press are according to President Roosevelt their meed of praise for his courageous efforts to bring about peace, the Post slaps viciously at the chief executive. According to the Post he has done nothing to entitle him to special credit. Just the day before the Post was purring about the party of Lincoln and Roosevelt. Off its guard for a moment it shows its claws. "When the devil was sick, the devil a saint would be," etc.

According to the sapient Dispatch a voter who removes from one election district to another becomes a bold, bad repeater. He was registered in district No. 1 in May; moved to district No. 2 in June; ergo, he is illegally registered in No. 1. When his name is struck from that roll and he appears to be registered in No. 2 in September he is doubly illegal. By precisely this calculation the Dispatch tries to prove the 40,000 names David Martin says will be added to the Philadelphia registry have been illegally omitted, and the 55,000 Mr. Martin admits must be stricken off, have been illegally put there. It is another beautiful illustration of the "reformer" who does not know a registry list from a nomination paper.

Republican State Chairman Andrews is entirely satisfied with his reports from the counties. They indicate the usual "off-year" plurality for J. Lee Plummer, or more. There is no good reason why this should not be so. Mr. Plummer is a man of high character, who has the heartiest support of all Republicans in Blair county, where he resides. He is well qualified for the position to which he aspires. His opponent, Mayor Berry of Chester, is not so well equipped for the place. He is a self-seeking politician, a place hunter, a chronic candidate for office who is willing to be the nominee of any party that has a chance of success—Prohibitionist, Free Silverite, by turns—Mr. Berry is anything for an office and not much in one.

Minister Rockhill reports the general collapse of the Chinese boycott against American merchandise. The principal cause of its failure is the desire of the Chinese to have American-made articles on account of their excellence. They want no substitutes and the boycott has not been profitable to the merchants engaged in it. In addition to this reason is the failure of the boycott to accomplish the purpose of coercing the American government into making a more liberal treaty. The effect has been to stop all negotiations. The Chinese demand is for a square deal. President Roosevelt at once showed his disposition to grant that, but he has also plainly indicated his belief that a secret boycott has no relation to a genuine square deal. It has no place there.

The Royal Arcanum Troubles.

Probably as many people are interested in the proceedings of the Royal Arcanum at Put-in-Bay as were interested in the Equitable tangle a few months ago, though the interest here is on a smaller scale and there is not such a huge reserve fund to lend a picturesque background. The troubles of the Royal Arcanum are not new, nor are they exclusively the troubles of this fraternity. Every insurance order based upon the assessment plan has gone through the same throes, or if it be still young and fresh-blooded may look forward to a similar experience as the mortality rate climbs higher and increase in membership goes on at a slower ratio. The real trouble lies in that ugly mathematical axiom that two and two make four, as a result of which no insurance company or society can pay out more than it receives. In discussing premiums and promises, people who contemplate insurance often raise the question, "How can it be done?" It is safe to say, in most cases where such a question can be asked, that it can't be done. The Ancient Order of United Workmen made this discovery, and the Arcanum also realized it some time ago. It is to the credit of the men at the head of affairs that they are making heroic though somewhat rash efforts to adjust the disparity and place brotherly love on a business basis, after realizing that increase in membership is no safeguard, as it also multiplies liabilities.

The Royal Arcanum has been far more businesslike than most similar organizations. From its inception in 1877 it has graded assessments according to age at entrance, whereas most fraternal orders have level assessments. Its mortality has been low, showing care in the selection of risks; its management has been judicious, energetic and devoted. The need of a reserve fund was realized 10 years ago, and a beginning was made when the rates were revised in 1898. The only fault of the Arcanum—which is the fault of most similar orders—is that the rates, even as revised, were too low. The time has come when the rates must be raised and inequalities adjusted. While the claims of old-line insurance men, who say the rate must be increased fourfold, are probably extravagant and not unbiased, some increase is inevitable, and the sooner it is done, the more gradually it is done, the more radically it is done, the better for all concerned. A sudden large increase, such as is now proposed, would disrupt almost any society; an inadequate increase, such as was made in 1898, would only prolong the agony of adjustment. The fraternal spirit also requires that the older members shall not be unreasonably burdened after having borne the heat and toil of the day to make the order what it is. The necessity for a change is clear; there is danger in delay; there is danger in precipitation. The wisdom and conservatism shown heretofore in the arrangement of this admirable society, which insurance experts concede to be a model of its kind, justifies the hope that everything will be arranged equitably and safely to harmonize fraternal fellowship with the rule of three.

English Railroad Wreck.

A deplorable accident is reported from Witham, England, resulting in the death and injury of a number of passengers. The trouble was caused by the derailment of two coaches, which crashed into the depot. How the cars were derailed has not been reported, but it may be taken for granted it was through no fault of the operating company.

This wreck serves again to illustrate the fact that accidents occur on the best regulated railroads. It has lately been the custom of some writers to compare the English and American casualty statistics and to draw inferences unfavorable to American railroad management. In this process the total casualties are usually set beside the total of passengers carried, rather than against the total miles of road operated. It is the fact that large traffic in passengers and freight by comparison with the miles of road operated is a factor of safety. Therein the English roads excel. Large mileage compared with traffic is a factor of danger, because it means conditions that preclude the use of many safety devices, including multiple tracks. The English system of operation is hardly equal to the American and the English railway accidents are easily comparable with those of American railroads operating in regions possessing similar density of population.

Industrial Progress, South.

The diversification of the industries of the south is exemplified in no more forceful manner than the increase in the number of coke ovens in the past quarter of a century. The greatest advance in this line has been made within the last 10 years, the incentive being the development of the coal properties and the establishment of iron and steel plants and co-relative industries. In 1880 the census returns gave the whole number of completed coke ovens at 1,988, which in 1904 had been increased to 33,788, showing a much larger percentage of growth than for the rest of the country.

In the same 25 years the production of coke had leaped from 397,776 tons to 6,244,185 tons. Pennsylvania, of course, maintains her premier place as a coke producer, and it will be many, many years before any other commonwealth will approach the commanding importance she enjoys. Her only possible rival in this respect is her neighbor West Virginia, which leads the southern states in the number of ovens, followed by Alabama, Virginia and Tennessee.

A great amount of this development of the south is due to the impetus given manufacturing interests by the protective tariff principle inaugurated and fostered by the Republican party. And, if it were not for some questions peculiar to conditions in the south, more of the prosperous southern states would be found in the Republican column. West Virginia is now firmly anchored, Delaware reasonably sure, Maryland is partly over and there is a fighting chance in Virginia this year to elect Lewis governor.

The Business Situation.

The agreement of the peace envoys at Portsmouth was the great event of the week. No one is competent to trace in advance all of its far-reaching effects. One effect in financial circles will be the release of a large hoard of credits piled up in anticipation of Russia's needs in financing a cash indemnity. The great European banks have been accumulating gold for months past in expectation of an indemnity loan. The terms of the treaty eliminated a cash indemnity, but the accumulated credits will now be available for developing the resources of both Russia and Japan. The two nations borrowed and expended a billion dollars for the prosecution of the war, representing a practical waste of approximately $15,000,000 a week. Russia and the orient are not so far away as they were before the war. The world has a better idea of the possibilities in the development of their natural resources than ever before, and new and greater markets will be one of the results.

It is reasonable to assume that Great Britain as the ally of Japan, and the United States the friend of both the late belligerents, will receive an ample share of the benefits that will grow out of the situation. Fortunately for the United States, we are harvesting the greatest cereal crops in our history, and the exportable surplus will be larger than in recent years. The movement of these crops is now under way, and for the remainder of the year there promises to be unusual activity in the money market and in the transportation business. Our acknowledged supremacy in the industrial field also promises much to our manufacturers in the acquisition of new markets. The outlook is, therefore, very bright for a continuance of the prosperity which is gradually reaching to all departments of trade.

The industrial news of the week tells of the preparations that are being made to meet business expansion. Large orders have been placed for steel rails and railroad cars, and the urgency of the demand for structural material resembles that of three years ago, when the mill capacity of the country was fully employed. The long-delayed improvement in the bituminous coal trade has also made its appearance, and from this time forward should make steady progress. Commodity values are firm and advancing, with the exception of breadstuffs, which have declined as assurance became doubly sure of abundant crop yields.

A reaction has occurred in the stock market which was entirely natural. Prices had reached the highest ever quoted for railroad and industrial stocks, and the return on the investment had declined at a time when the return on money loaned displayed an unmistakable advancing tendency. Bank loans have already reached the maximum in the history of the country. The supply of loanable funds is not sufficient to meet the needs of crop-moving and business expansion and at the same time cover the requirements of rampant speculation. When it comes to a choice between business and speculation at the discount window, speculation must take second place. When money at interest earns more than money invested in stocks, the latter temporarily decline until an equilibrium is reached. A further reaction in the stock market, therefore, would not be significant of any unfavorable change in legitimate business conditions.

The peace envoys indicate they intend to get all the fun out of the situation before they go home. Then it may be otherwise.

Now that Magistrate Moke has gone on a vacation justice may return to Central station from an extended trip of like character.

This is a bad year for politics in Missouri. The corn crop is giving the farmer plenty of opportunity for exercising his muscles.

Bishop Potter's subway hotel didn't last long, but the good bishop's picture in the newspapers had quite a run.

New York's anti-tipping law has gone into effect, but most of the Pullman car runs extend out of that state.

If it was to be done over we would make that election last fall unanimous.

Still, the spiritual kiss is not likely to drive the regular kind out of business.

The straw hat no longer shows which way the season's wind blows.

It's coming on to fall.
The chirpy crickets on the hearth
Are getting down to biz.
The maple leaves are turning brown
And you feel the rheumatiz.
It's coming on to fall.

A PREACHMENT BY THE QUIET OBSERVER

Touching on the Home Coming and Home Goings of the Folks.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

With the beginning of this month the oyster gets busy, and so do folks who are not oysters.

Dog days seem to beget a feeling of indifference in the business world, and the social world is inclined to take a holiday. Folks go visiting friends and friends come visiting folks, so that the population of the city remains much the same.

Ever so many thousands of people were away from the city last month. Did you notice their absence? Wasn't there just as many on the avenues, in the parks, and at the summer gardens? About the only place one could plainly notice vacancies was in church.

* * *

The fact of the matter is that the removal of a few thousand people from one city makes no perceptible change in its general appearance. The individual is missed from his place of business, or from his club, or home, but not from the crowd.

If some thousands are not missed how much less is the individual missed? Business goes on without noticeable interruption when the millionaire drops out, much the same as when a workingman dies.

How fortunate it is that the removal of an important figure does not cause a shock or stop the wheels in the business machine. And how more fortunate that we forget mishaps so soon, and so readily adapt ourselves to the changed order of things.

If we remembered our griefs and sorrows and trials what a miserable world this would be.

* * *

The schoolmarms came, they saw and heard much, and have gone, but they are not forgotten, not yet.

A copy of the first report of the Allegheny board of school controllers has been discovered by Mr. Hamilton, superintendent of parks. It was for the year 1855. At that time there were only four wards in the city of Allegheny, with four school principals.

Only half a century has passed since this first report was issued, and yet what a change, what a wonderful change.

What of the next half century? Will the centennial report show as great changes, and as much advancement during the latter half of the century as during the first?

There are a good many people now living who went to school in Allegheny in 1855, and there may be a few of the teachers of that period left.

Have those who were pupils then forgotten their teachers and their schoolmates? No doubt many have not thought of them for years and years, so that they have been as good as forgotten.

* * *

Why should we be remembered for long? Have you done anything worth being made a matter of record, or worth being remembered by those who are growing up around you?

And when you come to think it over is it not well that we are forgotten? No matter how well we may be adapted to our times we might be, and probably would be, a misfit in coming times.

If men and women are fitted for their day and generation, and do what they can as well as they can, they will have served the purpose of their existence, and will be entitled to just rewards.

Even now we hear it said of men who were once at the head of professions that they are behind the times, and in the way of others.

Dr. Osler wasn't so very far wrong when he said that three score years was the average limit of man's usefulness, but he did not say that he ought to then be chloroformed, as did Anthony Trollope in the story to which Dr. Osler referred, unfortunately for the doctor perhaps. But it set people to talking, and now they are thinking about it.

* * *

Speaking of old ones, there is Uncle Joe Howells, up in Jefferson, Ohio. He occasionally reminds the readers of the Ashtabula Sentinel, which he has so long edited, that he is getting up in years.

Had you read the letters he wrote while visiting his brother, William Dean Howells, this summer, you would have pictured them as a couple of boys out for a holiday, fishing and tramping through New England woods, boating and attending picnics.

A glimpse of them would have shown two well-preserved men, grizzled, but not aged, nor tottering step, nor slow. The one, Joe, medium height, slender, and of agile type, while the other, Will, was about as tall, but rather heavy set.

Boys they were, much the same as when Will put his stories and verses in type without first putting them on paper. He might get out a book of unwritten poems, stories, and pieces, and it would be a good book, and very readable.

In the last issue of the Sentinel Uncle Joe flashes up the following birthday announcement:

At sixty-two life has begun;
At seventy-three begins once more;
Fly swifter as thou near'st the sun,
And brighter shine at eighty-four,
At ninety-five
Shouldst thou arrive
Still wait on God, and work and thrive.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

What a comfort genial, old Dr. Holmes was in his day—and is his day over yet? He lives for us all in his poetry and his incomparable prose; his poetry is just as fresh as the day it dropped from his pen. He wrote for all ages and for all times.

Tomorrow, Friday, September 1, he will be seventy-three, and according to Dr. Holmes so now we suppose we are "to take up life's burden" and keep on working. It is barely possible we may "brighter shine at eighty-four," but we do not expect it.

"At seventy-three begins once more"

* * *

Well, what has all this to do with school teachers? They're more interested in being young than in growing old, which is right and proper. And if they are really anxious to remain young they can do so for a long time, or at least they may grow old so gradually and so gracefully that they will hardly note the change.

All should be taught how to grow old gracefully, which is equivalent to remaining young as long as they live.

Temperance in all things is the golden rule of health, beauty, happiness and long life.

Those who follow this rule will never feel the burden of years, nor the aches of age, as do those who are intemperate in their habits—not alone in their habits of eating and drinking, but in their habits of thought, their social and business conduct, in their pleasures, and in their pastimes.

These facts should be impressed on children by parents and teachers, and preachers should make it clear that the sin of intemperance is not confined to those who drink and carouse, but applies to all excesses, particularly to excess in dress and ostentatious display.

* * *

This is a most fitting time to set your pace for the coming year. If you found that you were going it a bit too fast last year it will be greatly to your advantage to drop a peg or two.

There are many, very many, whose sorest regret is that they kept up such a fast pace at the start, for at the middle of the course they discovered that they couldn't keep it, and from that on to the finish they had to go under whip and spur.

Start to win, but start easily and gracefully, and keep going as easily and gracefully as possible, and you will be going much longer, and your journey through life will be all the more enjoyable, and the future all the brighter.

Intemperate ambition and desire leads to hurry and worry and these lead to discontent and misery, both of which are fatal to happiness and success.

You cannot do better than to resolve to be temperate in all things, and then stick to your resolution.

MR. JEROME SEEMS TO BE THE POPULAR MAN

Many New Yorkers Think Him the Only Candidate for Mayor.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Every day brings brighter prospects for the reform elements in New York which are combining together for the battle against Tammany hall. There seems little doubt that Mr. Jerome will be nominated for mayor and will have the support of all the reform organizations as well as the Republicans. To be sure, the Municipal Ownership league objects to Mr. Jerome, but it may be brought around before the final decision is made. Just what the status of the Municipal Ownership league is in New York is pretty hard to tell. It was organized for the purpose of grinding axes for William Randolph Hearst, and in that it has been more or less of a failure. The Hearst payroll furnished the sinews of war, and kept the thing going, but whether Mr. Hearst controls the organization at this late day is a question.

At any rate the platform upon which it is proposed to run Mr. Jerome for mayor contains a strong municipal ownership plank, and the district attorney has agreed to it, therefore it would seem that the only reason the Municipal ownership league has for objecting to Mr. Jerome is the personal wishes of Mr. Hearst. Even without this organization's support, the reformers should be able to take the measure of Tammany hall this year. Mr. McClelland is a weak candidate at best, and the strength of Mr. Jerome should appeal to those who want promises fulfilled after the election.

Pittsburgher May Take New Theater.

A story floating around Broadway today was to the effect that John B. Reynolds of Pittsburgh is to be the manager of the new theater at Forty-fifth and Broadway, now in course of construction for Kemp and Wagenals, with whom Mr. Reynolds is now connected as business manager for Blanche Walsh. The new theater will be one of the finest in the city and the location is ideal. It will be a producing house, and will send many a good play out Pittsburgh way. Mr. Reynolds declined to discuss the story of his promotion, but his standing with the lessees of the new theater is such as to lend color to the rumor.

Bad Day for Dogs.

There is wailing in a score of households today because of the loss of canine pets by fire. Some of the 35 dogs burned to death this morning when the hippodrome kennels in Forty-fourth street were destroyed were prize winners with long pedigrees. Among them were a French bull dog belonging to Mrs. Richard Harding Davis, another belonging to Georgs Boniface, Jr., and four owned by Mrs. Putnam Bradley Strong, who was once May Yohe and at another time Lady Hope. One of the dog victims of the flames caused the fire by upsetting an oil lamp. The loss is about $5,000.

Mother Saves Her Family.

Almost human intelligence was shown by one animal during the fire, a blooded bull terrier mother of two handsome puppies. When the flames attacked the place she stowed her puppies under a sofa as far from danger as possible, and with the other in her teeth she jumped into a tank of water, and stayed there, keeping the puppy's head above water. There they were found after the fire had been extinguished, and neither was hurt, even to the singing of a hair. The puppies were born only a few days ago.

Tips Still Come Their Way.

Broadway waiters scarcely noticed today the fact that the new anti-tipping law is in force. Since the law says that no tips shall be given "without the knowledge and consent of the employer," there is no reason why one should be afraid. Certainly the proprietors of the Gotham hotels and restaurants know all about the tipping system, and have no objection. The only people to take advantage of the new law are the "tight wads," who were never very liberal with their tips at any time, and the loss to the waiters will not be very heavy.

Drinkers Object to "Gallery."

At last the secret of the failure of the subway tavern is out. The manager explained the trouble this morning. It was "The gallery." "No man likes to have a lot of cranks looking at him when he eats or drinks," said Mr. Johnson this morning. "And a lot of people were always rubbering at the poor fellow who came in to buy a mug of ale. They would point him out as a poor besotted tramp, and after hearing such comments, it was not likely that he would come back, preferring the Bowery poison in solitude to the best in the land at the same price with the gallery looking on and making personal remarks."

SEPTEMBER.

Who does not love the soft September days,
When summer lingers lovingly, and fain
Would say farewell? But with her train
Of winged subjects, in the golden haze
She vanishes so silently, we raise
No cry of anguish, fix no parting pain
Distress our bliss—our loss we count but gain,
Yet, e'en while dear September's name we praise,
The swallow tempts his wings to longer flight;
The grasses fade, the brown leaves flutter down;
Full ripe, the thistle-tops and milkweed blows
Sail far aloft on airy pinions light
And haste to catch all fleeting summer's gown—
Alas! Hath she gone! The faint wind sighs—
"Who knows?"

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Gossip Picked Up at Pittsburgh Hotels and Stations.

If attestation of appreciation of a man could be shown in a better way than was shown to Frank J. Mangle at the Hotel Colonial last night by the hotel management, employes and permanent patrons, Mr. Mangle would like to know of it. He enjoyed the occasion more than any other. He has been assistant manager at the Colonial for about a year, having started as a clerk there three years ago. On Monday he will become identified with the Merchants hotel at Johnstown, of which he has bought an interest. Under the management that Mr. Mangle will be able to give it will thrive.

The retiring assistant manager of the Colonial was presented with a handsome 50 gold diamond ring at the little banquet last night. The ring is formed in the shape of a lion's head, with rubies for the eyes and a diamond in the mouth. The presentation was made by O. M. Hallam, oldest resident of the hotel. Among others who spoke were Manager E. C. Smith, John J. Davis of Indianapolis, who is vice president of the Hoosiers 31, of which organization Mr. Mangle is treasurer; Dr. R. C. Craig, house physician at the Colonial, and Norman Straub, manager of the Colonial restaurant. A testimonial was read from the bell boys of the hotel. The affair was started and managed by Miss Margaret Greeley, stenographer at the hotel, and Miss Zurschmidt.

Good Auto Run from Cleveland.

William J. Conners, owner and proprietor of the Buffalo Courier and the Inquirer, made a splendid run in his touring car from Cleveland to Pittsburgh yesterday. Accompanied by Mrs. Conners and Miss Jordan of Buffalo, he started from Cleveland at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and at 8:30 o'clock last evening the car stopped in front of the Hotel Henry. Covered with dust from the long afternoon ride, but happy in the experience, the three tourists appeared as though having encountered a dust cyclone. Several days has they started from Buffalo, going by steamer to Chicago and returning eastward in their automobile.

Bishop Glories in Peace.

"Wasn't it a grand movement, that of President Roosevelt acting for the great American people for peace?" said Bishop W. E. Derrick of the Third episcopal district of the African Methodist Episcopal church, as he walked through the waiting room of the Union station to board a train for Chicago. "That peace is a magnificent testimonial to the American republic. While the president was instrumental through his strong personality and his high position in bringing this about, the influence rested in the hearts of the American people."

Bishop Derrick will deliver an address in Chicago Monday night on "The Two Flags," will then go to Toledo and later will go to Cincinnati, where the Ohio conference will open on September 12. He visited with Pittsburgh friends between trains. One of the matters to be taken up at the Ohio conference will be a furtherance of preparations for the golden jubilee of the Wilberforce university at Xenia, O. This university conferred the first degree of doctor of laws on William McKinley. It is the oldest institution of learning owned and operated entirely by the colored race. The jubilee celebration will take place next June. The Ohio state legislature has given $50,000 for the erection of buildings and the development of the normal department in connection with the university.

Says Herrick Will Be Governor.

Julius Whiting, Jr., of Canton, O., passed through Pittsburgh on the Pennsylvania system last evening on his way to Atlantic City for a rest before taking up the management of the Republican speakers in the gubernatorial campaign of Ohio.

"We have made arrangements for 1,000 meetings throughout the state," said he, "and the campaign will be carried on with as much zest as though Mr. Herrick would have to put up a hard fight. But he won't. Mr. Herrick and the whole ticket will be elected without a struggle."

Noted Regiment in Reunion.

While thousands of their comrades of the Civil war are journeying westward today to the Grand Army encampment at Denver, the Eighty-second regiment of Ohio volunteers—all the members of this noted regiment who survive—will gather at Mansfield, O., in the annual reunion. Among those from Pittsburgh who will be present will be N. Schaffner, proprietor of the Hotel Griswold. This regiment was with Grant at Corinth and Vicksburg and with Sherman on the march to the sea.

The special train carrying the Pennsylvania state delegation of Grand Army people to the Denver encampment passed through Pittsburgh yesterday morning, and another special train, bearing Post 99 from here also left over the Fort Wayne. About 6 Denver postmasters went out of the Union station last night.

Hoosier Accepts Antler Clerkship.

R. S. Leahey of Indianapolis, who was formerly connected with the Hotel English as a clerk, has accepted a similar position at the Hotel Antler, Pittsburgh, and was on duty for the first time last evening. While a loyal Hoosier, Mr. Leahey is also a good-hearted German, and he will doubtless gain a wide circle of friends here.

Davis Taking a Dip and Fish.

Harry Davis, the theatrical manager, not satisfied with the valuable hole in Fifth avenue where the Avenue theater formerly stood, took a notion to find a bigger hole, and in search for it went to Atlantic City last night to see if the Atlantic ocean will serve Harry better. "Nothing special," said he, as he stepped into the Pullman; "just going down for a dip and a little fishing."

Charles S. Bolsterling, traffic manager of the American Bridge Company, and Charles H. Jackson, commercial freight agent of the Big Four here, went to Philadelphia on a business mission, and will spend Sunday at the seashore.

COL. MOODY SEES A BLOODY FIGHT

Railroad Man Visits Supt. McQuaide's Office and There Has a Thrilling Experience.

DESPERATE BURGLAR DOWNED

Col. Samuel Moody of the Pennsylvania company, called at the office of Thomas A. McQuaide, superintendent of detectives, at 3 p. m. yesterday. McQuaide was busy, and the colonel waited in the ante-room, chatting with Kane, the superintendent's clerk. The atmosphere was peaceful; there was nothing in the air to lead Col. Moody to suspect that a terrific scene would soon be in progress.

Suddenly queer noises emanated from McQuaide's private office. A chair was overturned, the sound of a heavy body banging against the door was heard. Then the electric bell, connected with a button in McQuaide's office, rang sharply. Kane jumped to the door and opened it.

"My, my!" said Col. Moody.

Locked in each other's arms, McQuaide and a negro tumbled into the ante-room.

"Help!" shouted Kane.

Col. Moody, pulling up his shirt cuffs, started to wade into the melee, to help McQuaide, but he was brushed aside by Policeman McRoberts and Detectives Lally and McGough, who rushed in from the lobby. Through the ante-room into the lobby, the negro, McQuaide and the two detectives fought, the negro, a short but stoutly-built fellow, struggling desperately.

Battle Raged Fiercely.

From the lobby back into the ante-room the knot of men swayed, and the negro was finally forced, still fighting, into McQuaide's private office. McQuaide bore the negro to the floor, in such a position that none of the detectives could help their superintendent. Just then Detective Crooke ran in. The negro was still fighting and trying to bite McQuaide, and Crooks handed the superintendent a handy billy.

"Whack, whack, whack, whack!" went the billy on the negro's head. The black man stretched out peacefully on the floor. McQuide got up and ruefully inspected his bruised thumb; Lally gazed at his cuffs, soaked with the negro's blood; McGough looked at his necktie ornamented with streaks of gore, and Crooks put his handy billy into his pocket. Nippers were put on the negro's wrists and he was dragged back to a cell.

"If he had got this dirk it would have been all up with me," said McQuaide, pointing to a dagger which always lies on his desk and is used for a paper cutter.

Col. Moody inspected the dirk and shook hands solemnly with McQuaide. Then he congratulated the superintendent on his escape, transacted his business and went away.

Confesses to One Robbery.

The negro was Edward Johnson of Chicago. He is in the Central station charged with being a suspicious person, and by tomorrow it is believed, several charges of burglary will be brought against him. He confesses to being guilty to one robbery.

"I'm glad that it's the Riverside penitentiary I'm going to," said Johnson, after his wounds were dressed and the blood had been washed off. "They can send me up for awhile, but they can't give me a life sentence."

This remark will lead to a looking up of Johnson's record, for it is believed he may be wanted in some other city for a more serious crime than burglary.

Some of the spoils found on Johnson belongs to the family of J. C. Bayne of 226 North Craig street. The house was entered on the evening of August 29, a bracelet of nine $1 gold pieces, and a lot of rings, two watches and other trinkets were stolen. All but the coins were found on Johnson. A negro was seen leaving the house by the porch roof, and his description answers that of a black man who has committed several burglaries during the past five weeks.

From the reports of the pawnbrokers it was learned that nine $1 gold pieces were pawned by a negro on Thursday. Detectives Crooks and Riley have been working on the burglaries for weeks, and they went to see the pawnbroker. The man said he had seen the negro passing his shop several times, and the detectives arranged to have the negro pointed out, either to them, if they were in the neighborhood, or to the first policeman. The detectives saw the pawnbroker again yesterday about noon and repeated their instructions.

Arrest of the Negro.

About 2:45 p. m., two negroes passed the shop. The pawnbroker's clerk followed them, and at Sixth and Wylie avenues he pointed out Johnson to Policeman Costello. Costello arrested the man and walked him to the Central station, with uplifted mace. The negro was taken into McQuaide's office. McQuaide questioned him and began to search him. The superintendent felt the watches bulging on the inside of Johnson's calf, under his trousers.

"Man," asked Johnson, "what are you doing with my legs?" and he leaned over the stooping McQuaide, trying to reach the dirk on the desk.

McQuaide pushed him back, and then the fight began. Neither man spoke. Johnson rained blows on McQuaide's throat and chin, while the little superintendent responded similarly. McQuaide at first scorned to shout for assistance, but Johnson was stronger than he, and McQuaide finally managed to reach the electric button, being too exhausted to shout. The men fought silently and ferociously for five minutes, but so silently that Kane, in the next room, did not hear them.

The negro who was with Johnson was arrested later, but was released, as it turned that he is a visiting colored Knight of Pythias, and accidentally got acquainted with Johnson on a train from Chicago. His name is Charles Patterson. That was nearly two weeks ago, and it is supposed that on that occasion Johnson was returning from a trip on which he disposed of some of the loot obtained here.

Shortly after last midnight Detectives Charles Aymer and Louis Leff and Officers Barney Sullivan and Daniel Eckert arrested Alberta Burts of Chicago, at 145 Webster avenue. The woman came here with Johnson, alias Andrew Jackson, and it is thought she may know something about the robberies he is alleged to have committed. A careful search of the room occupied by the pair failed to reveal any of the plunder they are supposed to have obtained, but it is the opinion of the detectives that the woman secreted it in some other place.

TRANSFER CAUSES TROUBLE.

Chinatown Excited Over Restaurant Sale Where Money Is Not Produced.

Chinatown is excited over charges made that the Chinese Reform association and several well-known Chinese have attempted to gain possession of a restaurant at 511 Second avenue, without producing its equivalent in the coin of the realm. The restaurant was owned by a stock company and was recently auctioned.

The purchase was supposed to be bona fide until yesterday, when, it is alleged, payment was not made but possession demanded. Lee You, a member of the reform association, and also one of the stockholders of the restaurant company, says he will carry the matter court if immediate settlement is not reached.

Finishes Thirty Years' Service.

Milton B. Hays, one of the veterans among the Pittsburgh letter carriers, rounded out 30 years of service for Uncle Sam yesterday and was presented with a handsome Morris chair by his fellow workers. The presentation was made at the postoffice in the presence of all the carriers, J. H. W. Anderson making the presentation speech. Mr. Hays responded in kind. Mr. Hays is 60 years old and lives in Watson street.

Fatal Wreck in England.

WITHAM, ENGLAND, Sept. 1.—As the express from Cromer, on the Great Eastern railway, was entering Witham station this morning, several passenger cars left the track and crashed into the station buildings, causing the death of 10 persons, six of whom were women, and seriously injuring 20 people. The gas-mederic beneath the cars caught fire and consumed the wreckage.

MOKE IMBROGLIO GROWS THICKER

Kirby Takes Moke's Place, Latter on Enforced Vacation, and Clerk Wilt Pouts.

COUNCILMAN TOOLE IS LUCKY

The Moke case is getting interesting. Mayor Hays is angry when asked if he intends to suspend Moke, Moke himself is on a vacation, said to be due to his nerves, which have been exasperated by the criticism on his conduct as a magistrate, and Magistrate Kirby is sitting in Moke's place at the Central police station.

Select Councilman Patrick F. Toole was fortunate yesterday morning. The day before Moke had ordered that information be made charging Toole with disorderly conduct, for alleged bad behavior in Moke's office, where Toole and two companions were undergoing a hearing for disorderly conduct in a barroom, Moke was to give Toole a hearing yesterday.

Presto, there was a change. The news got abroad in the First ward on Thursday night that Moke had been sent on a vacation by the mayor and that Kirby would sit in his place at the Toole hearing. Forthwith began a procession of friends of Toole to Kirby, and, of course, there was much interest when Toole appeared before Kirby yesterday morning. It was known that the Toole Democratic faction in the First ward had defeated Magistrate Kirby's brother's aspirations to represent the district in the legislature, by voting for the Republican candidate, Henry Godfrey, and some who did not know of the pilgrimage of Toole's friends to Magistrate Kirby the night before thought Kirby might try to get even with the Tooles.

But Councilman Toole was discharged, although Policeman Matthew Gorman testified he had sat on Moke's desk at the hearing the day before, and when ordered off interrupted the hearing so that it could not proceed. Other policemen corroborated Gorman. Gorman said Toole had been drinking.

The reason given by Kirby for discharging Toole has given offense to Moke's friends. Kirby said that on account of the condition of Toole and his friends Moke should not have held a hearing at that time. As that meant that Toole's friends would have had to stay in the Central station many hours longer, they had insisted on an immediate hearing, although Moke wanted to postpone it. Moke's friends show that the hearing given by Moke was insisted upon by the defendants, and maintain that Kirby ought not to criticise Moke, when the latter only did what the defendants wanted him to do.

E. D. Wilt, formerly proprietor of the Grand Opera house and now clerk to the police magistrate at the Central station, is pouting. At the regular hearings yesterday Wilt wanted to carry off a list of names which was lying on Kirby's desk. Kirby ordered him to put the paper down and Wilt protested, saying Moke had always permitted him to take the list, as it was for the clerk's use. Kirby had his way. Wilt says he will appeal to the mayor.

Mayor Hays grew very angry when asked if he intended to suspend Moke, and said Moke had merely gone on a vacation, but friends of T. D. Stewart got active yesterday and asked the mayor to restore Stewart to his former place as magistrate. Stewart was laid off by the mayor for attending the inauguration of the president against orders, the force of magistrates being then shorthanded because of the suspension of another one of the five. Stewart's suspension looked like a dismissal, for the mayor appointed Moke to Stewart's place, but Stewart's friends contend that Stewart was merely suspended and is practically on waiting orders, ready to take his old place when the mayor dismisses another magistrate.

Superintendent of Police Wallace has no criticism to make of Kirby for discharging Toole, but he said yesterday that a number of young men in the First ward had been carrying things with a high hand and he would make an example of them.

WILL HAVE EVERY VOTER REGISTER IN PERSON

Philadelphia Republicans Will See That All Get a Chance to Vote This Fall.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—Final instructions governing the September assessment were given ward leaders at today's meeting of the Republican city committee. These directions, which are being carried out tonight, were for a meeting of all ward committees who will go over the lists with the assessors. An effort will be made to have every voter not on the list go to the polling place between now and Monday night and register.

Those who do not go in person will be visited by the assessors and their names placed on the registry books. It has been decided not to use proxies or powers of attorney except in cases where the voter is absent from the city, ill or suffering physical disabilities which prevent him from going in person to the place of registration.

The City party today issued a call for a county convention on September 20 at which time a ticket will be named. Twenty-nine of the 42 wards were represented at the meeting of the city committee of the party. Franklin M. Brewer, superintendent of John Wanamaker's store, presided. The primaries will be held September 18. CHESTER D. POTTER.

WRECKS AT COAL WORKS.

Coal Cars Dash Down Inclines and Injure Men and Destroy Property.

A train of coal cars broke from their fastening at the entrance of the Mifflin Coal Company's mine at Homeville, near Homestead, yesterday morning, and ran down the long incline, crashing into the buildings at the foot of the incline. Two Italian workmen were caught in the wrecked building and both were injured. Anton Pietono, aged 30, was cut on the head and both legs, and had his right arm broken. John Gouga, aged 24, was seriously bruised about the abdomen and had his right leg injured.

The injured men were at work in the loading house at the bottom of the incline when the cars crashed into it without warning. The cars demolished one side of the building.

A steel cable, to which was attached a train of loaded coal cars at the Riley coal works, at Hays station, broke yesterday morning while the cars were running down the incline. The cars left the track and went through the trestle, wrecking it.

FITTING CLOSE OF INSTITUTE

Brief Farewell Addresses Are Made by Drs. Stetson and McCormick.

REPORTS OF THE COMMITTEES

The 55th annual meeting of the Allegheny county teachers' institute came to a close yesterday at noon, after a five days' session. It was declared to be the most successful meeting of the body ever held, especially as to attendance, interest, enthusiasm and the quality of the instruction and entertainment provided.

Director Gibson and Miss Beulah Remington led the musical numbers at the closing session and Dr. S. B. McCormick conducted the devotional exercises. Dr. Stetson of Maine was then introduced to make his closing address, the subject of which was scheduled as "A Master's Message."

Dr. McCormick followed with the closing address of the week, but speaking very briefly because a business session of the institute remained to be held. His theme, as found on the program, was "The Teacher and the Pupil."

The committee of necrology, consisting of Miss Mary H. Gibson of Wilkinsburg, Miss Hallie W. Jack of Braddock and Miss Clara B. Kennedy of Tarentum, reported through Miss Gibson suitable resolutions on the death of a number of teachers during the year. One of these deaths occurred only a few hours before the report was read, that of R. M. Biose, principal of the public school at Bridgeville. The others named in the report were: Mrs. Mary Carlton Johnston of Collier township, Miss Jeneva Cunningham of Indiana township, Miss Lillian B. Long of Wilkinsburg and Miss Eva Sweadner of Braddock.

Report of the Committee.

H. B. Twitmyer of Knoxville submitted the report of the committee on resolutions as follows:

First—That the thanks of the institute are due the instructors for the able and entertaining lectures of the session.

Second—That the efficiency of a school should be determined by the quality and not by the quantity of work, and that we heartily endorse the tendency to eliminate non-essential and cumbersome phases of the various branches in order that a greater efficiency may be attained through greater concentration of effort upon their fundamental and practical features.

Third—That we view with keenest satisfaction the evidence of a lively awakening on the part of the patrons and taxpayers to the best interests of their schools and our profession, as shown by the increase in the salaries of teachers reported uniformly from all parts of the county.

Fourth—That we commend the attitude of Director Hammerschlag, of the Carnegie Technical Schools, in his efforts to articulate that great institution with the public schools in this vicinity to the end that one harmonious system may result.

Fifth—That we heartily approve the recent action of the directors in making it possible by a generous increase in his salary for the county superintendent of schools to select a capable assistant, thereby enabling him to supervise even more efficiently than heretofore the educational interests of the public schools of this great county.

Thanks for School Board.

Sixth—That we very cordially tender the thanks due the Third ward school board of Allegheny City for granting the free use of their school building during this session of the institute.

Seventh—That we greatly appreciate the kindness of the newspapers that have each day recorded the proceedings of the institute.

Eighth—That we commend the successful efforts put forth by County Superintendent Hamilton and the other members of the executive committee in making this the fifty-fifth annual session of the county institute a most helpful and instructive one.

Both reports were unanimously adopted after which C. E. Dickey of Avalon, the recently appointed assistant county superintendent, was introduced and made a neat address which was well received. Brief addresses were also made by Superintendents Allison of Wilkinsburg, Grant Norris of Braddock and J. M. Norris of Homestead. The institute closed with some felicitous, congratulatory remarks by the county superintendent which were, practically, a benediction.

In the afternoon many of the teachers visited Luna park by invitation of the management and also, by invitation, a manufacturing plant in Allegheny, where they critically sampled some 57 or more varieties of condiments.

EIGHTH PLACE TO QUAKERS.

New York Team Wins Rifle Match at Sea Girt and the Army Finishes Second—Scores for the Day.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—The Pennsylvania rifle team today came out eighth in the National team match, scoring 4,220 to New York's 4,528, infantry's 4,460 and Ohio's 4,431. At 1,000 yards Pennsylvania was seventh. High Pennsylvania 1,000-yard score was 41 made by Capt. Shields of the Fourteenth regiment. Sergt. John Hession of the Eighteenth made 34. The uncertain light and the rain that burst upon the range at 4 o'clock sent Sergt. Slopey to the bottom with only 7. An Hawaiian and a Jerseyman never once found the target. The Pennsylvania 1,000-yard scores were:

Maj. Kemp, 28; Sergt. Porterfield, 31; Private Gamble, 38; Private Dunn, 18; Private Moore, 33; Maj. Roelling, 29; Sergt. Duganne, 18; Sergt.-Maj. Fried, 34; Capt. Shields, 41; Sergt. Gray, 31; Sergt. Slopey, 7; Sergt. Hession, 34. Total, 342.

Best score at 1,000 yards was by Capt. Winder of Ohio, 47. Ohio was high on that range with 389, where New York made 380.

CHOLERA IS SPREADING.

Forty-Three Cases and Nine Deaths Are Reported at Berlin—Precaution at New York.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Forty-three cases of cholera in all have been reported. Nine persons have died from the disease, and many suspicious cases are under observation. The legal and medical machinery for dealing with this invasion of the Asiatic bacillus is now working at full pressure.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—That extra precautions shall be taken to prevent bringing in a case of cholera among immigrants from German ports was agreed today at a conference between Health Officer A. H. Doty of this port and the representatives of several transatlantic steamship companies.

Speedy Work of the Courts.

DETROIT, Sept. 1.—Frank Weakly, alias Harry Parker, and Tom Sherman, alias Harry Johnson, of Independence, Mo., were this afternoon found guilty of murdering Pawnbroker Jesse Meyer in his ship here July 28, and sentenced to life imprisonment. The men had been on trial since August 12.

fall clothing

If all men were forehanded the Clothing department would be a busy place.

Many men make their selection early so as to be ready when the new is needed.

For them, and also to be fully prepared for the later business—have the clothing inspected, marked, sorted and all in tip-top shape—we get the Clothing in early.

Ready now with Suits and Fall Overcoats, Separate Trousers and Fancy Vests.

Men's Sack Suits, $12.00 to $30.00.
Men's English Frock Suits, $25.00 to $35.00.
Men's Prince Albert Coats — with Vests— $25.00 to $35.
Men's Evening Dress Suits, $30.00 to $50.00.
Men's Tuxedo Suits, $30.00 to $45.00.

Among the new models is an English Sack Suit—Coat cut long with deep center vent, deep broad lapels, almost square front, back cut to conform to figure—sleeves have cuffs and four buttons.

Materials are all wool English Checks, Herringbones and Diagonal Cheviots—Greys, Browns, etc. $18.50 to $25.00.

Another smart model is three-button sack, cut long, broad lapels, rounded sleeve, deep cuff, body fitting, long hook vent in back center seam, $20.00 to $35.00.

This early showing of Men's Clothing you will find surprisingly extensive, and decidedly interesting.

Sizes and proportions for all builds of men—short, tall, stout, slim—including special provisions for very large men.

Men's new Short Top Coats, $10.00 to $30.00.
Men's new Three-quarter length Coats, $10.00 to $35.00.
Men's new Paddocks, $20.00 to $40.00.
Men's new Raincoats—Chesterfield and Paddock styles, $10.00 to $35.00.
Men's new separate Trousers, $2.50 to $12.00.
Men's new separate Vests—washable and wool fabrics, $1.50 to $7.50.

New Clothing for Boys also ready—from Kilts for 2-year youngsters to the smart, snappy Suits for young fellows of twenty.

Store open as usual this afternoon—Saturday.

NEWS OF THE NEARBY TOWNS AND COUNTRY

PUBLIC IS PLEASED WITH J. LEE PLUMMER

Republican Candidate Meets Gratifying Reception in Many Counties.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—Chairman W. R. Andrews today had an extended conference with J. Lee Plummer, Republican candidate for state treasurer. Plummer has visited quite a number of counties upon invitation of Republican leaders, has made a few speeches and is much gratified by his reception everywhere. He was yesterday the guest of Delaware county Republicans and left tonight for South Bethlehem, where tomorrow he will address a new Republican club recently organized.

No plans for a campaign tour have been made and it is not yet certain whether the candidates will go on a speaking tour. Mr. Plummer today placed himself at the disposal of Chairman Andrews, and will follow the latter's instructions as to his campaign program. He will be present and make an address to the State League of Republican clubs at its convention, which will be held September 20, at Easton.

"There is absolutely no doubt of Mr. Plummer's election," said Chairman Andrews tonight. "He is not only a Republican, but a man of integrity and possessed of qualifications which guarantee a proper and successful administration of the business of the state treasury. Plummer has the solid support of the Republicans of Blair county, and when a man commands such support in his home county he must be all right and acceptable to the Republicans of the state as a whole."

Chairman Andrews goes to the shore tomorrow, but will be again at state headquarters Monday morning.

WOMEN SUBJECTED TO SEVERE TORTURE BY TWO BURGLARS

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 1.—At 2 o'clock this morning two masked men entered the home of the Misses Catherine and Ellen Paul, a mile southeast of here, and subjected the two aged women to brutal treatment. The robbers smashed in the front door with an ax and confronted the sisters with drawn revolvers, demanding to know where their money was kept. Only a small amount was in the house. The robbers refusing to believe the inmates, bound their hands and feet, pulled pillow slips over their heads, and then fastened them to the bed and piled mattresses and bed clothing upon them. They ransacked the house, securing a small sum of money, two gold watches and a quantity of jewelry. It was three hours after their escape that one of the women succeeded in freeing herself and giving the alarm.

The noise of a man attempting to force an entrance into the home of Mrs. V. A. Cunningham in West Washington was heard by a relative, Miss Josephine Kirchenbauer, who secured a revolver and shot at the intruder. Bloodstains were found on the porch this morning, and it is believed the man was hit. He escaped.

Mrs. James Emery of West Washington was awakened last night by a noise at a window. She called the police by telephone, and then heard an attempt to force open her front door. Securing a shotgun she fired through the door, tearing out a panel. She saw two men run away, neither of whom was injured. Burglars entered the residence of George Kuhns of West Washington, but were driven away at the point of a revolver.

Thomas H. Wells.

PIONEER CAPITALIST ANSWERS DEATH'S CALL.

Thomas Wells Dies at His Home in Youngstown After a Short Illness. Was Very Versatile.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 1.—Thomas H. Wells, after an illness of 10 days, died today. He had made a trip to New York within the last two weeks and was taken ill when he returned home. He was one of the wealthiest men of the city, his estate being approximately $5,000,000. He was mayor of the city in 1883. Mr. Wells, who was an engineer, merchant, capitalist, promoter and literary man, was one of the best-known citizens of Youngstown.

He was born at Charlemont villa near Dublin, December 12, 1814. One brother, Edward C., came to Youngstown and was his partner in many ventures. Young Wells was graduated from Trinity college at Dublin and at once took up civil engineering. He was 20 years old when he came to America and became a member of the engineering corps which laid out the railroad between New York and Newark, N. J., and later to Reading, Pa., the first of the great Pennsylvania system. At that time he was a resident of New York and for seven years after N. P. Willis, Gen. Morris, Margaret Fuller, Washington Irving and other celebrities were his friends.

He was 28 years old when he came to Youngstown and took up other lines of industry. He first became interested in an ashery which he built in Mahoning avenue and built another at the foot of Sheehy street. He afterward formed a partnership with his brother, Edward C. Wells. Wells & Moore was the name of one of the first coal and iron firms of which he was a member. Tod, Wells & Co. was the name of the firm whose operations laid the foundations of his great fortune in conducting the Mineral Ridge bank. From this time he was actively engaged in coal operations in the Mahoning valley and at once went into iron manufacturing. His first venture in this direction was when he became interested in the Youngstown Rolling Mill Company, which was organized by his brother. He was also identified with the Cartwright-McCurdy plant, the Ohio Steel plant, Youngstown Iron Sheet and Tube Company and other enterprises.

In 1869, when the Pittsburgh, Shenango & Lake Erie railroad was opened, the first engine was named "Thomas H. Wells." He was president of the railroad for years and while holding that office met Miss Grace Jewett, a telegraph operator for the road at Greenville, Pa., who became his wife. Three children were born from the union, Mrs. Richard Gerlick, Mrs. William Seigfried and Thomas H. Wells, Jr.

MAN DISAPPEARS AND LEAVES HIS CHILDREN

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—Mrs. Caroline Alcorn reported to the police today that Michael Ryan, who with his five small children boarded at her home, has been missing since yesterday morning, and she fears he has committed suicide. His wife died last winter and he has been melancholy ever since. Ryan left the following note: "Mrs. Alcorn—I am tired of living and I know I have not done right. I have two brothers and a sister in Pittsburgh, and a sister in East Palestine. Please bid my children good-by for me and get them good homes."

GEORGE DUNN IS KILLED; TWO HURT IN RUNAWAY

Spirited Horse Frightens at Break-Down and Bolts, Smashing Pleasure Seekers' Vehicle.

Three men, out driving in Braddock on Thursday morning, were injured, and one of them, kicked by the horse in the stomach, died yesterday at the McKeesport hospital. The dead:

GEORGE DUNN, a mine foreman of Wall.

The Injured:

W. W. DEMPSTER of Wilmerding, bruised about the head and body; taken home.

JAMES WILSON of Wilmerding, cut and bruised about the head; taken home.

The three men hired a trap and a spirited horse at a livery stable in Wilmerding and were out for a pleasure drive. They had driven through Braddock and were returning to Wilmerding. It is said that they were driving between two street car tracks when they collided with a huckster wagon which had broken down on the westbound track. The horse became frightened, and in trying to get clear of the wreckage, smashed the vehicle and threw the men out.

GOOD TIMES SEEM OVER.

Packet Navigation in the Harbor Suspended Until a Rise Comes.

After enjoying the longest season of navigation in the history of the rivers, navigation in the harbor is suspended. Boats are unable to get up above Sewickley, and most of them will tie up at Rochester, unless the water gets so low they will have to suspend altogether. Until last week the boats have been running regularly and never missed a trip. Last year navigation was suspended entirely July 5 and was not resumed until last spring.

The Rose Hite and Admiral Dewey were brought down from Homestead yesterday and will be given a general overhauling. They will go into commission between Rice's Landing and Morgantown. This is in preparation for the repairs on No. 6. The Columbia and J. C. Woodward will take care of the trade between this city and the lock and transfer will be made there.

The J. C. Woodward was the Morgantown boat in yesterday and left again at 4 o'clock.

The Virginia got up to Rochester last night and will leave there this afternoon. Her passengers will be handled by rail and freight will be lightered to this city.

CITIZENS CLAIM SWINDLE.

Irwin People Have Two Promoters Arrested for Obtaining Money Under False Pretense.

IRWIN, PA., Sept. 1.—(Special.)—The grand jury this morning brought a true bill against President John Robinsteen of the Eleanor Iron and Steel Company of North Irwin, and his agent, G. T. McCarthy, both of Pittsburgh. The men were arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. Before a justice they gave bail for a trial. The action was brought by Irwin citizens. They had subscribed to a bonus on condition that the mill would be started and kept in operation.

About $3,000 was paid on the subscriptions and shortly after the concern went into the hands of a receiver. It had never been run a day, but on the contrary was dismantled by the officials. The report of the receiver showed that not a dollar was used for the purpose intended and the subscribers alleged that Robinsteen and McCarthy put the money to their own use. They then organized and raised money to prosecute.

The Death Roll.

Ralph M. Blose.

Ralph M. Blose died yesterday at his home in Elwood street, Sheraden, aged 41 years, of typhoid fever. Have You Spun A "Silver Top"?

Everybody is spinning them. They're emblematic of the far-famed Duquesne Silver Top.

In a set of tall tubes, down at the Exposition, you'll see just the exact quantities of materials used in brewing one bottle of this monarch of amber beers.

In a similar set, placed in the same frame, are shown the constituents which every bottle of the finished beer contains.

We do not hesitate to tell you all about our products. The materials used are carefully selected; the finished beer is wholesome, nutritious and absolutely pure.

Take one of our booklets home with you. It tells, without fear or favor, the whole story of pure beer and its place in nutrition.

SPECTATORS CHEER WAGNER AFTER DROPPING A FLY BALL

TEN STRAIGHT FOR PIRATES

Sam Leever Pitches in Fine Form and the Cardinals Suffer a Shut Out.

WAGNER MUFFS A FLY BALL

It was an easy task for the Pirates to take yesterday's game from the Cardinals, and the players did not have to exert themselves to make the tally 6 to 0. There was a crowd of 3,119 out to see the game and watched the locals play rings around the visitors. It was the Pirates' tenth straight victory, which is going some in baseball.

The unusual spectacle of a crowd of spectators applauding a player who has made a misplay was witnessed yesterday when Wagner in the eighth inning dropped an easy fly ball sent up by Dunleavy. The drive was a high one back of third base and Hans got under it without any trouble. Clarke, who chased in from left field, kept hands off, as Wagner yelled that he had it and the manager told him to make it sure. The ball dropped squarely into Hans' outstretched paws and gracefully dropped out again. The big fellow was dumbfounded and his fellow players gave him the laugh. At the conclusion of the inning as he was in front of the field the crowd cheered him in fine style, the crowd cheered with the same vim it would applaud a sensational play.

Considerable of the interest in yesterday's game was centered in the work of Ganley, the new outfielder secured from the Des Moines team and who made his first appearance with the Pirates. The new player is about the size and build of Fred Clarke and is just about as speedy on his feet. In the field he had three chances, one of which was somewhat difficult, and he accepted all of them in fine style. At bat he stands up to the plate nicely and hits the ball hard, but he could not succeed in getting it safe, though none of his drives were good hits for him. The general opinion was that Ganley looks like a corker.

Sam Leever was pretty much the whole show yesterday, as he was there in pitching form and held the Cardinals to four scattered hits. The schoolmaster had his curve ball working in fine shape and try as they might the visitors could not get the ball safe. In but one inning was there any danger of scores and that was in the third, when a hit and two passes filled the bases with but one out, but a fast double play by Wagner, Ritchey and Howard got the schoolmaster out of a very ugly hole. Leever was given elegant support, particularly by Leach, whose work in middle field was the real feature of the game.

McFarland, who was on the rubber for the Cardinals, pitched good ball in all but two innings, when the locals succeeded in bunching their hits and six runs were the result. Howard started things going in the second inning, which he led off with a hit and was advanced to second by Brain. Ritchey, Gibson and Leever followed with safe drives and three runs were scored. There was nothing more doing until the sixth, and the Pirates got their bats to working again. In this inning hits by Leach, Ritchey and Gibson, a base on balls to Wagner and errors by Smoot and McFarland, produced the other three tallies.

In the visitors' half of the fifth inning Grady led off with a terrific drive to the middle field fence and the hit should have been good for three bases, but fast fielding by Leach held Grady to second base and he went to third on a fly out, but could get no further, as the next two batsmen were unable to get the ball safe. The game was clean played and there was little wrangling with the umpire, which made thing all the more pleasant for the spectators. The score:

HEAVY TRACK PREVENTS RACES

Pittsburgh Horsemen Want to Go Ahead, but Events Are Put Off Until Today.

FINE HORSES COMING HERE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM EDWARD TERRILL, Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—At the instance of the officials of the Gentlemen's Driving Club of Chicago, the second and last day's matinee races were postponed till tomorrow on account of a heavy track. Pittsburgh and the other cities outside of Chicago represented at the meet opposed postponement as it cleared off before 10 o'clock, and the track was almost fast before the afternoon was over. In any event the Smoky City horses will be shipped home tomorrow night. The real reason for the postponement was that a bigger crowd might be out on a Saturday half holiday. In tomorrow's races J. G. Bennett's Frank Wilson (2:06¾), E. F. Whitcomb's Terrace Queen (2:08) and W. A. Avery's Lady May (2:07¾) will be started in the free-for-all pace for the Chicago cup. Pittsburgh's reliance is Lady May, who is expected to go in 2:04 over the Washington Park track. Morning Star (2:04), in Billings' string, is her dangerous rival.

J. E. Barnes' Joe W. will meet, among others, Alexander and Aerolite in the 2:07 trot; Louise Mac and Redwood will go in the 2:10 trot, Ozar in the 2:14 trot and William H in the 2:18 trot.

Tonight the big banquet is being held at the club house of the Washington Park club. John Francies, postmaster of Allegheny, responds to the Pittsburgh toast.

In the aftermath of the gold cup race the splendid achievement of Sam Pickering's Dr. Strong, whose win secures one leg for Pittsburgh on the massive gold trophy, is on everybody's lips. The Chicago people have placed a glass case around it, which will be shipped to Pittsburgh with it if desired.

The superb horsemanship of J. D. Callery, who piloted Dr. Strong to victory, was also a reigning topic among the millionaire horsemen today. Mr. Callery will drive Terrace Queen in tomorrow's race. As clever a driver as her owner, E. F. Whitcomb, has stepped down in favor of Mr. Callery. Dave G. McDonald, Dr. Strong's trainer, has also come in for much praise for sending the horse in the pink of condition.

The Pittsburgh contingent were the guests last night at dinner at the Auditorium Annex of S. A. Pickering, the owner of Dr. Strong.

The success of the Pittsburgh horses at the meet has insured a big entry from the stables represented here for the Brunots Island inter-city races next Thursday and Friday. Mr. Lawson, the son of Thomas W. Lawson, will ship seven tomorrow night among them being Borsima (2:07), who defeated Lord Derby. Other stables to make entries are: C. K. G. Billings, H. K. Devereux, F. G. Jones and Henry Schmulbach. Dave G. McDonald has just bought for a matinee member one of the fastest trotters around the Pittsburgh half-mile track, which will be entered.

The Pittsburgh horsemen here spent the day automobile riding; many were entertained privately. C. K. G. Billings had out Neville Bailey and J. A. Glesenkamp in his big auto.

EXPOSITION IS PLACE FOR STUDY

Thousands Are Learning Some Things About Pittsburgh They Never Thought of Before.

DAMROSCH WANTS CHANGES

In point of instructive value to Pittsburghers no exhibit at the exposition is so important as that of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce. The big stand is in the center aisle of the main building and every afternoon and evening it is a gathering point for hundreds.

It is often said that a stranger to Pittsburgh knows more of the city after a week's visit here than any native does, and there is much truth in this. Born and reared in this center of industrial activity, a Pittsburgher never thinks of visiting Homestead, Duquesne or the big Westinghouse shops. A stranger always does if the opportunity offers. Unless a local man's business demands it, he knows little or nothing of the amount of tonnage, petroleum production, coal and coke supply, pig iron and steel output, or glass manufacture of the Pittsburgh district. Realizing this, the directors of the chamber of commerce installed the exhibit that contains more data and information than a visitor to the exposition could become familiar with in a week.

Surprises the Natives.

Manager Fitzpatrick says that before the exposition season closes next month thousands of Pittsburghers will know considerable of the things one ought to know about his home city. The topographical map that was sent to the St. Louis fair is very much in prominent place in the stand. This has started a study of local topography among thousands, and it is amusing to listen to the expressions of surprise and incredulity that are voiced by natives of this vicinity, who evidently have never before given any attention to the lay of the land about Allegheny county.

In boxes and bins surrounding the stand are specimens of hard and soft coal, iron and steel in various forms and stages of development, and glass from the great glasshouses of the Monongahela valley district. Besides this there are charts and framed paper sheets that in figures tell briefly the story of Pittsburgh's supremacy as an industrial center.

Director Walter Damrosch is one of the most interested visitors daily at the exposition. Between concerts he can be seen strolling about the big buildings, giving close attention to everything on display.

"This is really a wonderful place. I like to look around and learn what a great city Pittsburgh is," he said yesterday afternoon.

And the Conductor Was Late.

Mr. Damrosch got so interested that he forgot what time it was and was late in starting the 4 o'clock concert. Band and audience began to get restless when Mr. Damrosch did not appear on time. A messenger caught up with him, however, and he hurried back to the music hall to lead the orchestra, and was greeted with the applause Pittsburghers always have for him.

Mr. Damrosch is not entirely pleased with the acoustics of the music hall, and yesterday afternoon suggested some changes to Manager Fitzpatrick. After next Monday the orchestra will sit farther back in the hall, where the boxes are now. The change was to be made on Monday, but Mr. Damrosch said he did not care to make any experiment on Labor Day, when it is certain the exposition will be crowded with out-of-town visitors.

No more novel feature is offered this year than the exhibit of the newsboys in the main building. The equipment of the place and its purpose has been written of before, but the boys added to the interest yesterday by setting up a printing press and going into the job printing business. The lads are in deep earnest and are working like beavers. Three of them labored all yesterday afternoon with clay and turned out some very unique articles.

The Value of Advertising.

An afternoon in the exposition gives one an idea of the value of the advertising done there. Just to watch the crowds of women who gather around some of the big exhibits and study and comment upon the latest creations in gowns and cloaks for street and evening occasions, demonstrates how actual displays are advertising mediums of intrinsic value. It gives the impression that a woman is like the Missourian, who wants to be "shown."

The exposition management is preparing for the reception of the school children. The dates for the visits of the Pittsburgh schools have been chosen, but the distribution of schools has not been decided yet. When this is done arrangements will be made for the schools of Allegheny and the boroughs. The first big excursion from out-of-town points will be run next Thursday.

There are a large number of lost articles at the office in the main building, where they will be kept until called for and identified.

This Afternoon's Program.

This afternoon a number of "popular" classic selections will be given. Tonight several of the soloists of note with Mr. Damrosch will appear. Mr. Saslavsky will give a violin solo; Mr. Tilkin, a trombone solo, while a new number, a trio for the oboe, English horn and clarinet will be played here for the first time by Messrs. Addimando, Tabuteau and Leroy. This afternoon's program follows:

Overture, "Masaniello" ..... Auber
Minuet from symphony in E flat ..... Mozart
Selections from "Il Trovatore" ..... Verdi
Perpetual Motion (a musical joke) ..... Strauss
Three old English dances, from Henry VIII. ..... German
1—Morris dance. 2—Shepherd's dance. 3—Torch dances.
Overture, "Raymond" ..... Thomas
Dance movement from "Symphonie Fantastique" ..... Gries
Norwegian melody, "Spring" ..... Grles
Selections from "The Trumpeter of Sakkingen" ..... Nessler
Waltz, "Roses from the South" ..... Strauss

MUSICAL HITS.

The big musical hits at seashore, mountain resorts and other vacation places are: Songs—"In Dear Old Georgia," "Dammy," "Sweet Adeline," "Keep a Little Cozy Corner in Your Heart for Me," "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" and "Yankee Doodle Boy." New two-steps and waltzes:

"Yankee Grit," "Chicken Charlie," "Moonlight Serenade," "Splivins Corners" medley, "Dance of the Stars," "Lost Paradise" waltzes.

SOCIETY

A MAID of honor, the best man and four ushers will compose the bridal party which will attend Miss Agnes Denniston Crookston and John Brandon Guthrie at their wedding on Tuesday evening, September 5. Miss Crookston has asked her cousin, Miss Helen Rebekah Crookston, to be maid of honor. The latter is an Oakmont girl, and a student at St Xavier's academy. She will come home from the academy on the Sunday preceding the wedding, and will remain only until the day following that event. Havelock Walser of New York City, a Rutgers college friend of Mr. Guthrie, will serve as best man, and Dr. William Judd Crookston, a brother of the bride-elect; Francis Sellers Guthrie, brother of the prospective bridegroom, and Bayard Guthrie, a cousin, are the three ushers selected. The name of the fourth is yet to be announced. Invitations for the wedding will be issued on Monday by William Crookston of Chislett street, father of the bride. The Rev. Dr. Robert Waddington Grange, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, will perform the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock in the church, and immediately after the ceremony a wedding dinner will be served at the Hotel Schenley for the members of the bridal party and an equal number of young ladies. No at-home days have been announced, as the young people have not yet decided where they will live. They will, however, reside in the East End. Mr. Guthrie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker Guthrie of Howe street, are expected home from Cobourg, Canada, very shortly.

Will Celebrate Golden Wedding.

At the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Miller, in Wineblddie avenue, East End, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spencer will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage this evening. They were married on September 3, 1855, at the bride's home in Pittsburgh. Mrs. Spencer, who was Miss Isabella Beatty, was born in Omagh, County Tyrone, Ireland, 69 years ago and came to this country six years later. After a short residence in Philadelphia, her family moved to Pittsburgh, where she later met and married Mr. Spencer. He is 74 years of age and was born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. When he was eight years of age his parents came to Pittsburgh where Mr. Spencer resided until one year after his marriage, when he and his bride took up their residence in Ottawa, Ill. They returned to the Smoky City 20 years ago and are now living in Wineblddie avenue beside their oldest daughter, Mrs. Miller. The other children are Mrs. George J. Groshens, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Simeon G. Gray, Ottawa, Ill., and George K. Spencer, Wichita, Kan. Another son, Thomas D. Spencer, is dead. The third generation includes Miss Mary I. Miller, Mrs. Elbert Owens (Miss Anna B. Gay) of Ottawa, Ill., Willard Gay and Miss Marguerite Spencer. The reception tonight will be held from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Entertaining Chicago Guest.

Covers will be laid for six guests at the luncheon which Mrs. George Shotwell of Wilkinshure will give this afternoon for her house guest, Mrs. Caesius Shotwell, Sr., of Chicago. Mrs. H. S. Kline, Mrs. Schiffer of Edgewood, Mrs. J. H. Garrett of Albany, N. Y., who is visiting her son, W. H. Garrett of Edgewood, Mrs. Shotwell and Mrs. J. D. Arnold will be the luncheon guests. Mrs. Arnold will give a musicale this evening for the Chicago visitor. The program will be carried out by Mrs. Caroline White, pianist; J. A. Bradley, tenor, and Stanley K. Harris, baritone. On Wednesday afternoon of next week Mrs. Arnold will give an informal tea for Mrs. Shotwell. During the hours from 3 until 5 o'clock the hostess will be assisted by Mrs. George Shotwell.

Give Unique Entertainment.

There were several new and unusual features to the reception given last evening by the executive committee of the Lawrenceville branch of the Young Women's Christian Association. The affair was given as a farewell for Mrs. Fannie Keller, the retiring branch secretary, and as a welcome to Miss Sara Shaw and Miss Annie B. Kerr, the new secretary and assistant. A committee including Mrs. Alex Munn, Miss Smith and Miss Lewis, had charge of the decorations, which were a feature of the reception. One veranda was fitted up as a Japanese tea room and was presided over by young women in appropriate Oriental costumes. Miss Martha Kelley headed the committee in charge of this feature. Miss Bell and Miss Katherine Hare had charge of the witches' corner. The executive committee includes Mrs. William Velte, Mrs. J. H. Stauff, Mrs. Caleb Blyholder, Mrs. E. A. Armstrong, Miss Mary Milligan, Mrs. J. P. Cameron, Mrs. Alex Munn, Miss Mary Milligan and Mrs. I. M. Sands.

Will Have Quiet Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Florence May Rodgers and Herbert George Wardale next Wednesday morning will be a very quiet event. It is to take place at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Job Ablett, in Fulton street, Allegheny, 10:45 being the hour appointed for the ceremony. The bride, given away by her father, F. M. Rodgers of Crafton, will be unattended, and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, the Episcopal rector of Crafton. The ceremony will be followed by a wedding breakfast, after which Mr. Wardele and his bride will leave on their wedding trip. They will make their home in Crafton. No special at home days have been set. Among the social affairs which have been given for the bride-elect is an informal luncheon, at which Miss Emma Johnston of Oakmont was hostess last Tuesday.

Ablett-Fetterman Wedding Day.

Miss Laura Gertrude Ablett has chosen Wednesday, October 4, as the day for her wedding to Dr. J. M. Fetterman of this city. The Rev. Dr. Henry D. Lindsay, pastor of the North Presbyterian church of Allegheny, will perform the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Job Ablett, in Fulton street, Allegheny, at 6:30 o'clock in the evening. Only relatives will witness the ceremony, which will be followed at 8 o'clock by a large reception. Miss Alice Ablett will be her sister's maid of honor, and Dr. Fetterman, who is a son of the Judge Fetterman of this city, will have Smith B. Stewart as his best man. After their wedding trip the couple will be at home in Hawthorne, Pa.

Miss Shallenberger Engaged.

From Washington, D. C., comes the interesting bit of news that Miss Josephine Shallenberger is to become the bride of Rev. Paul Sperry of Bath, Me. Miss Shallenberger is the daughter of Second Assistant Postmaster of the United States W. S. Shallenberger and Mrs. Shallenberger. Mr. Sperry is a brother of Arthur Bassett Sperry of this city. Both he and his fiancee are graduates of the Columbian university in Washington. Miss Shallenberger is well known in Pittsburgh and in the Beaver Valley, her family having resided in Rochester for many years.

Will Have Two House Guests.

Mrs. J. D. Arnold of Mulberry avenue, Wilkinsburg, is expecting two house guests next week. Her sister-in-law, Miss Sadie Arnold of Chicago will arrive in Pittsburgh about Saturday to remain for some time, and Miss Edith Rowland, also of Chicago, will be Mrs. Arnold's guest for a couple of weeks. The time of her arrival is not yet known.

Notes of Society.

Miss Alice Ablett and her father, Job Ablett, have returned to their home in Fulton street, Allegheny, after spending some time with E. H. Fahs of New York city at his summer home on Silver bay, Lake George.

Wesley C. Morrow of Washington avenue, Allegheny, left on Thursday for an extended trip through the west.

Eva Blanche, daughter of J. R. King, president of the Grove City Savings & Trust Company, was married Thursday evening to Charles H. Wilson, bookkeeper of that company. The Rev. W. J. McCloskey of Grove City officiated. The wedding was a quiet one owing to illness in the bride's family.

Among the Clubs.

Colony of New England Women.

The Pittsburgh Colony of New England Women is preparing to enter the ranks of active club life this fall. Though the colony was organized last spring, the officers and charter members are still at work on the constitution and by-laws, and the first regular meeting of the colony will not be held until in October. This organization is composed of women born in New England or born of New England ancestry. The Pittsburgh colony is auxiliary to the National Society of New England Women. The particular line of work which will be taken up by the local colony has not yet been decided upon. The charter members include Mrs. E. P. Boynton, Mrs. George Page Wrench, Mrs. George W. Hallman, Mrs. David Kirk, Mrs. Jane D. Waring, Mrs. Lucian O. Livingston, Miss Elizabeth Dickey, Miss Elisa May Willard, Miss Mary Willard, Mrs. William Bacon Schiller, Miss Florence Aldrich, Mrs. George Pearson, Mrs. Charles H. Zug, Mrs. Frederick C. Weber, Mrs. David Eaton Mitchell, Mrs. Frank E. Mulkie, Mrs. D. W. Kuhn, Miss Grace L. Williams, Mrs. Benjamin Haseltine, Mrs. MacMarcellin Adams and Mrs. Wesley G. Carr. The officers are: Mrs. David Kirk, president; Mrs. William Bacon Schiller, first vice president; Mrs. George Pearson, second vice president; Mrs. George Page Wrench, secretary; Mrs. Lucian O. Livingston, treasurer; Miss Florence Aldrich, assistant treasurer.

Wimodausis Club's Presidents' Day.

At the meeting of the entertainment committee of the Wimodausis club yesterday arrangements were made to observe presidents' day on Tuesday, September 12, the first regular meeting day of the club this season. Fifty invitations will be sent out to the special guests of the day, who will include the presidents of the women's clubs in and about Pittsburgh. Miss Kate C. McKnight, president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and several other prominent club workers. The meeting of the Wimodausis club will be conducted in the assembly room of Syria temple, and among other business at that time the nomination and election of delegates to the meeting of the state federation in Cambridge Springs in October will be held. After the meeting refreshments will be served in the banquet hall. There will be informal speaking, together with music arranged by the entertainment committee. Mrs. Reese Lindsay is chairman of the entertainment committee, under whose auspices the presidents' day reception will be conducted. The president, Mrs. John H. Armstrong, who is in Atlantic City, is expected home next week. Arrangements were also made yesterday for the next outing of the club in Luna park, to be held on Wednesday, September 20, when an euchre will be given in the afternoon, followed by a dance in the evening.

Library Opens for Fall Work.

The sub-station of the Carnegie library which was established several months ago in the Soho settlement house yesterday commenced its fall and winter work. During a portion of July and August the library was open only on certain days each week, but hereafter both the library and reading room will be kept open from 8 o'clock until 9 on Monday, Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays, and on Wednesdays and Thursdays from 3 o'clock until 6. An interesting fact in connection with the patronage of this station is shown by an increase in the attendance in the reading room over the number taking advantage of the circulating library. Usually the circulation exceeds the attendance. In the Soho settlement house the children like to gather to read, and will often spend the entire afternoon there, while in the evening the young men and older girls are among the regular attendants. Miss Sontz is in charge.

Planning for a Donation Day.

The first donation day at the Pittsburgh Hospital for Children will be held in October. Heretofore the hospital has never had a donation day, but with the hope of something in the near future adding to the hospital or building a new one, the managers have decided in inaugurate the custom adopted by similar institutions. Arrangements for the day were discussed at the regular meeting of the board of managers yesterday morning, but as a quorum was not present the matter was held over until the October meeting, when the day will be selected. Mrs. George W. Guthrie, president of the board, is still in Bar Harbor, and a number of the other members have not yet returned to Pittsburgh from the seashore and the mountains.

Want Additional Property.

The board of managers of the Soho baths, Robert C. Hall, president, is making an effort to secure more property, giving a greater frontage on Fifth avenue and extending back to Forbes street, and for this reason there is a delay in drawing the plans for the proposed bathhouse. A meeting of the finance committee of the board, of which John F. Larkin is chairman, will be held next Tuesday, followed on Friday by a meeting of the board postponed from yesterday.

REACTION CONTINUED AND STOCKS CLOSED LOWER

Copper and Smelting Led the Decline—Call Loan Rates Easier Than Expected—Local Stocks Were Dull but a Little Firmer.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The reaction in the New York stock market continued yesterday, and prices closed lower all around. The western clique and large professional operators were the largest sellers, and the impression prevailed that the short interest had been considerably increased. London was also a seller at the opening, but later bought, and probably quit the day about even. During the first hour dealings were on an enormous scale, the sales reaching 400,500 shares. The only time the market was active during the remainder of the day was when the traders were attacking prices. Transactions gradually dwindled, and the total sales for the day were less than 950,000 shares.

There is no doubt that the public has been kept from buying stocks on the reaction by the fear of higher money rates. Yesterday was a good day for testing the money situation, because the loans made then run over to Tuesday, as Monday will be a legal holiday. The rate, however, did not get above 3 per cent and later in the day declined to 2 per cent, at which it closed. The bulls took some comfort out of the course of money because it left room for the inference that the big bankers were still friendly toward the stock market, else there would have been a marking up of rates. Today's bank statement, if the preliminary estimates of the movements of currency are worth anything, will be unfavorable, the forecasts indicating a loss of more than $7,000,000 cash. Unless there is a large reduction in loans, the surplus reserve is likely to be cut in two.

Amalgamated Copper and Smelting led the decline in the early part of the session, and at no time was there any support, prices closing at the lowest of the day. The official price of copper on the New York metal exchange declined ¼c a pound, and the speculative price on the London exchange also closed lower. A recognized trade authority was responsible for the statement that the resale of a round lot of copper had been made by Chinese interests on the basis of 15.90c f. o. b. New York. This copper had not been exported, but was held on contract for delivery at Shanghai, and was resold because the recent sharp advance represented a profit that could not be withstood. The statement tended to prove that the advance in the metal was due partly, at least, to speculation.

United States Steel stocks held fairly steady during the greater part of the day, but in the final dealings weakened with the rest of the list and closed at the lowest, the net loss being ⅝ per cent. Tennessee Coal and Iron closed 1⅝ lower, and Colorado Fuel and Iron 1⅝ lower. Sugar closed at a net loss of 3 per cent.

Union Pacific and New York Central were among the weakest of the railroad list at the opening, and finally closed 1½ per cent lower. Pennsylvania sold off 1 per cent to 142¼ and closed at 142½. The remainder of the active list closed ½@1 per cent lower.

Various explanations were offered for the continued reaction in the market in the face of admittedly favorable trade conditions. The most popular explanation of the bulls was that the market had been raided in the interest of a syndicate of New York bucket shops. The common sense view, however, is that the reaction was long overdue, and when all the good news was out, it was natural for pools and individuals to sell to realize profits. Today's market is likely to be narrow, inasmuch as it will be the last until next Tuesday.

The great bulk of the business on the Pittsburgh stock exchange was in Tonopah Extension and National Fire Proofing preferred. Out of a total of 5,944 shares for all stocks, 2,795 shares consisted of Tonopah Extension. The stock rallied 10 cents a share to $5.75, the movement being based upon expectations that the forthcoming dividend will be double the rate paid in July. The company has also resumed shipments of ore which were suspended while the Tonopah railroad was being broad-gauged. United Copper was a fraction lower, selling at 35⅞, but rallied to 36¼ bid at the close. National Fire Proofing common sold at 6½ and rallied to 7½. The preferred made a new low mark for the year at 25¼, but rallied to and closed at 26½. Crucible Steel common declined a fraction to 12½, but the preferred rallied to 64 and closed at that price bid. Ohio Fuel Supply was firmer at 43, while Manufacturers Light and Heat closed unchanged at 36. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas declined a dollar a share to 55. Westinghouse Electric was lower, selling at 83½. Air Brake advanced a dollar a share to 150, being favorably affected by the announcement of the placing of large orders for cars by the Pennsylvania railroad.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH

The stock rallied to $5.75 on dividend expectations.

National Fire Proofing preferred declined to 25¼ and recovered to 26½.

IN WALL STREET

Liquidation continued on an extensive scale in the stock market.

Trading less active and prices closed near the lowest.

Sales included 930,500 shares stock and $3,295,000 bonds.

Amalgamated Copper broke to and closed at 82¼.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

One factor in the early weakness in the New York market yesterday was the advance in the call loan rate to 3 per cent, traders looking upon this as preliminary to a flurry in the money market. This rate was apparently fictitious, however, inasmuch as many renewals were made until next Tuesday at 2½ and 2¾ per cent. Prices recovered some after the early decline, but rallies were half-hearted and the market became narrow and very dull. Many traders were disposed to avail themselves of the coming holiday to close out their commitments. No arrangement for higher prices was found in the forecast of the week's money movements. The banks show a loss to the sub-treasury on the inferior movement of over $7,000,000, the greater part of which was sent west and south. Although nothing has been said on that point, it is more than probable that New York financial institutions have been making direct shipments to the interior of which there is as yet no public record. At all events, today's bank statement is awaited with more than the usual degree of interest, and it is hoped that the showing will be less inexplicable than that of the previous week.

The deposits of the Guarantee Title and Trust Company now exceed $2,100,000. And are said to be increasing satisfactorily.

Darr, Luke & Moore sold 3,600 shares Tonopah Extension. The largest buyers were Morris, Brown & Co. and Sproul & Co. The stock closed at an advance of 10 cents a share. It is generally expected that the dividend to be declared this month will be 10 per cent, as compared with the initial dividend of 5 per cent declared in June.

In the local curb market Golden Anchor was quoted at 88c bid, 90c asked; Oriental and Mashate, 59c bid, 60c asked. North Butte was quoted at 34½ bid, 34¾ asked. Window Glass Machine and the natural gas stocks were unchanged.

National Fire Proofing preferred rallied easily from 25¾ to 27 and closed at 26½. The street believes that there is a large short interest in the stock. It was rumored yesterday that the hitch in the underlying company bond deal had been overcome, but no final decision regarding the issue will be reached before the regular meeting of the directors on the 15th inst.

There is a great deal of manipulation in United Copper stock. For several days past the price has been bid up just at the close of the market. On Thursday it was bid up to 35¾. Yesterday the highest sale was at 36⅝, but the final bid was 36½.

Westinghouse Air Brake advanced $1 a share to 150. The strength is based upon the announcement that the Pennsylvania railroad has awarded contracts for 16,000 cars, and that other roads are in the market for equipment. Every new car or locomotive means a new air brake, and the earnings of the Pittsburgh company should show a large increase over 1904. Of the Pennsylvania railroad order it is said that the Pressed Steel Car Company was allotted 6,000 cars, and as the present time the latter has unfilled orders on its books amounting to $44,000,000.

A Buffalo dispatch says that the Westinghouse interests have bought a site on the Niagara frontier upon which a large plant will be built for the manufacture of electrical machinery.

Incorporation papers filed during August in the eastern states by companies with an authorized capital of $1,000,000 or more, as well as increases of like amount by other concerns previously in existence, as compiled by the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin show a total of $30,125,000. This compares with $61,315,000 in July and $31,980,000 in August a year ago. With the single exception of July, however, the August showing is the least important for any similar period this year. The two largest new incorporations were the United Sulphur, Copper and Iron Company, with $12,-000,000, and the American Palace Car Company, with $10,000,000. A few other concerns had a capital of $2,000,000 to $5,000,000. The greatest increases in capital stock by old concerns were the National Lead Company, from $30,000,000 to $60,000,000, and the North American Biscuit Company from $4,500,000 to 9,000,000.

Cambria Iron Company have declared a dividend of 1 per cent, payable October 2, as registered September 15.

Gross earnings of Big Four for July increased $126,828 and net earnings decreased $8,191.

Gross earnings of Atlantic Coast Line for July increased $214,626 and net increased $82,-173.

Gross earnings of Rock Island for June increased $388,777 and net increased $33,500.

The International Paper Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on its preferred stock, payable September 30.

London and the other securities markets abroad were generally better. London's operations in New York amounted to about 20,000 shares, of which 20,000 represented purchases, chiefly Atchison, Erie and the Steel stocks.

The strength of the Morgan stocks, as distinguished from the so-called Standard Oil group, occasioned much talk. There was good support to the United States Steel issues, Atchison and Erie.

The energies of the bear side conveyed largely around Amalgamated Copper, though such issues as Canadian Pacific, as well as Reading and the Hill issues were not spared. The decline in Amalgamated Copper was explained to a degree by announcement of a break of a quarter of a cent in the metal. This scarcely offsets the 1-cent advance of the past fortnight, but in view of the danger signals sent out from Boston it was sufficient with other things to subject Copper to a severe pounding.

CURIOUS SUIT IN REALTY CIRCLES

Sewickley Case Involves Points of Building Restrictions and Title Insurance.

OAKMONT SALE OF $35,000

Twenty-one years' occupancy gives a man title to a property in Pennsylvania, but at the end of 100 years' ownership his neighbors may prevent him from erecting buildings on his lot. This is the curious anomaly that is presented in a suit which was entered yesterday afternoon in common pleas court No. 1 against the Guarantee Title and Trust Company by Attorney David S. McCann, acting for D. Walter Bell. The controversy promises to be one of the most interesting that has arisen in realty circles for some time, as it involves many vital points connected with building restrictions and title insurance.

Last April Mr. Bell purchased from Frank E. Richardson 72x149 feet at Walnut street and Frederick avenue, Sewickley, for $6,700. The Guarantee Title and Trust Company was employed to examine the title and returned to Mr. Bell before he paid for the lot a certificate declaring the title was good, excepting a clause which stated that no buildings could be erected on the front of the lot. Mr. Bell made some exception to this, saying that he did not wish the property at all with building restrictions. Officers of the Guarantee, it is claimed, told him that the clause practically amounted to nothing and would make him no trouble, as building restrictions were void after seven years existence and these had been made 20 years before. With this understanding the deal was closed.

Neighbors Stopped Him.

In May Mr. Bell started to build an addition and a porch in front of the house on the lot and facing in Frederick avenue. Andrew Dryman and other residents in Frederick avenue at once secured a bill in equity against Mr. Bell and his contractor, Daniel S. Fraser, and Judge Marshall Brown granted them a permanent injunction, preventing Mr. Bell from going ahead with his building. In his suit for $5,000 brought against the Guarantee Title and Mr. Bell charged that he was "falsely, improperly and incorrectly advised and counseled by them," and avers that he would not have bought the property had he known that the building restrictions would be enforced.

The contention of the Frederick avenue residents has been that the addition to Mr. Bell's house would cut off their view. If the old building restrictions are enforced a good share of the lot is unavailable for building purposes. Such restrictions, it is said, can only be annulled without a written petition when the ground is changed from a residence to business or manufacturing thoroughfare, when the original grievance would not exist. The outcome of this case will be watched with much interest for it is one of many similar cases where a very slight impediment in a title gives rise to innumerable legal tangles.

Realty Company Named for Woman.

The Land Trust Company by its agent, B. F. Duncan, has bought for the Rebecca Realty Company the old Elizabeth R. McLean farm of 27 acres at Oakmont for $35,000. The place is surrounded on three sides by the holdings of the Oakmont Country club and has a frontage of 1,932 feet on the Allegheny river. The Allegheny Valley railroad crosses it at a short distance from the river and Panther Run station on that road is near one end of the property. It is the intention of the buyers to lay out the farm in sites of from one to five acres and put on the market this fall. There is a good 13-room house on the farm, and it is possible that this, with one of the larger plots, will be sold soon. The property is only 10 minutes' walk from Fulton station and is the third shipment that has been announced for Oakmont within the last two months. The purchasing company is composed of prominent residents of Oakmont and was named after a lady member.

The Commonwealth Real Estate Company has completed the sale of the property at 1145 Penn avenue on the Hotel Haywood, the consideration being $40,000. Title was obtained from John H. and Theresa Devlin and Mrs. Mary J. Reynolds, and the present owners are A. C. Stein and Isaac Sachs. The building is a four-story structure containing about 20 rooms and stands on 24x100 feet. It rents for $3,000 a year.

Not Enough Plasterers at Carnegie.

Some idea of the great activity that is evident in building all over the country is gained from the difficulty contractors are having in getting good plasterers to work in Pittsburgh. W. P. Getty, who has the contract for the plastering of the Carnegie institute addition, a job which will cost over $300,000, and will involve some of the finest work in the country, has been forced to go to other cities and advertise there for skilled plasterers, particularly finishers. Mr. Getty has been working on the job over six months with a force of 60 to 75 men, which was not adequate to keep up with the other work. Last week he went to Baltimore and Boston, and it is said, secured some workmen. A force of over 100 are now at work but the job would use many more if they could be secured.

John F. Sweeny has made a remarkable record in house selling since June 1, having disposed of 44 houses in the last three months. These dwellings averaged in cost from $3,000 to $4,500 each, and if rented would bring from $30 to $50 a month. Six of them are in course of construction in Lincoln avenue, East End, where Mr. Sweeny previously operated largely. Of the 40 houses which Mr. Sweeny is building on Mt. Washington only one is left unsold. The lowest cash payment made on the houses was 10 per cent. Many buyers paid 50 per cent down and some deals were for cash. This sale with the terms of payment shows not only that there is an urgent demand for cheap, well constructed houses in the city wards, but that people have plenty of money with which to buy them.

Title for Zion Church Site.

Gustus Dice and others have secured title from the estate of the late John G. Holmes to 120x145 feet at Center avenue and Graham street, Twentieth ward, as a site for the new Zion Evangelical church. The consideration was $19,200.

Through the office of John A. Sharp six brick houses belonging to George H. Van Horn have been sold to Samuel D. Waxman for $18,800. They are located on 96x167 feet on the north side of Ophelia street and are rented for $104 a month.

Lot buying at Turtle Creek this summer has kept up with a commendable activity, considering the apathy that has prevailed in some other quarters. John E. Kane has just sold these lots in the Electric plan, which was put on the market two years ago: To W. H. Semmens, Nos. 548-566, for $2,700; to James W. Lilly, No. 537, for $900; to A. F. Torrace, No. 409, for $950. Mr. Semmens already owned 14 lots adjoining his recent purchase, on which he is building six houses, and nine more dwelling restrictions. Officers of the Guarantee, it is claimed, told him that the clause practically amounted to nothing and would make him no trouble, as building restrictions were void after seven years existence and these had been made 20 years before. With this understanding the deal was closed.

Some idea of the great activity that is evident in building all over the country is gained from the difficulty contractors are having in getting good plasterers to work in Pittsburgh. W. P. Getty, who has the contract for the plastering of the Carnegie institute addition, a job which will cost over $300,000, and will involve some of the finest work in the country, has been forced to go to other cities and advertise there for skilled plasterers, particularly finishers. Mr. Getty has been working on the job over six months with a force of 60 to 75 men, which was not adequate to keep up with the other work. Last week he went to Baltimore and Boston, and,

CROSSINGS TO GO IN WILKINSBURG

Authority Is Given to Proceed at Once—Promotions on B. & O. and Pennsylvania.

GOOD RECORD IN OPERATING

Authority has been given to Assistant Engineer George W. Snyder of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania to negotiate with the Wilkinsburg borough authorities for the elimination of three grade crossings in that borough. This authority was given by General Manager W. W. Atterbury after an examination of the plan proposed by the Pittsburgh division officers. This plan was outlined in this column on August 17, the features being an elevation of the railroad trackage an average of six feet through Wilkinsburg and a depression of the three streets nine feet, so as to give sufficient clearance between the street level and the girders of the overhead railroad bridges. It is understood that General Manager Atterbury has recommended and authorized the improvement practically as the plan was prepared by Mr. Snyder, which has met with popular approval of the people of Wilkinsburg.

The plan is to cut out the dangerous grade crossings at Penn, Rebecca and South avenues by the elevation of the tracks and depressing the streets, and at Brushton avenue by the vacation of this avenue and the giving of an undergrade crossing for Braddock avenue, one square away and just within the city limits of Pittsburgh. The Pennsylvania, by this plan, would have to elevate its four-track roadway for about a mile at a cost of about $80,000, while the building of the overhead bridges would cost about $160,000, making the entire cost to the railroad company $259,000.

The recommendations of General Manager Atterbury will be worked out into the plan by Assistant Engineer Snyder and negotiations will be opened within a few days with the Wilkinsburg authorities.

Pittsburgh in 1906 Program.

That Pittsburgh will be recognized in the big improvements to be made by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad next year is now considered certain. The long-delayed terminal work here will in all likelihood be taken up next spring, and when a new terminal is built for the freight and passenger traffic it will be of more stupendous proportions than has been anticipated. The freight warehouse, it is said, will be of a size that will compare favorably with the new Duquesne freight warehouses of the Pennsylvania at the Point. The inbound freight house will probably be four or five stories in height, with storage and refrigerator facilities. Just where the freight terminal will be located has not been decided, or, at least, not so far as can be learned from the officers here. The proposition to erect the freight houses east of the Panhandle tracks, between Second avenue and the Monongahela river, is under consideration. This arrangement would give ample room for the passenger terminal building and trainshed without the use of any portion of the wharf.

Another improvement for this district next year will probably be the building of the new line from here to New Castle Junction. Plans for this line have been prepared from several surveys and the route may be selected and work begun yet this fall. One of the surveys calls for the building of a tunnel under Bloomfield and the upper portion of Lawrenceville and a bridge across the Allegheny river about midway between the present bridge and Sharpsburg. It is also likely that consideration will be given to the building of the new route from McKeesport to Hancock, Md., via the old South Penn.

Good Record for Pennsylvania.

With a record of the heaviest movement ever known on the Pittsburgh division in the month of August, the Pennsylvania officers may well be proud. The latter record is that of 95 per cent of the passenger trains arriving at destination on time, more than 85 per cent of the fast freight trains operated within the allotted schedule allowance and the regular freight movement being at the rate of seven miles an hour, in comparison with an estimated movement of five miles an hour last year in the same month. These percentages not only show a good movement, but along with the enormous traffic moved show that there need be no fear of a congestion of traffic.

Passenger Train Master John Keiser said yesterday that August was about the highest month in the history of the road in traffic handled on passenger trains, and the operations on time reached almost the highest figures of record. Had it not been for little mishaps in the last four days of the month the percentages would have been about 2 per cent greater in each case. Assistant Freight Train Master W. A. Sheaffer said that the movement of freight is exceedingly good and that there is no reason whatever to worry over a freight congestion.

B. & O. Recognizes Cumberland.

Recognition of the petition of the shipping interests of Cumberland, Md., and its vicinity has been given by the traffic department of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The shippers asked that a man of authority in the traffic department be placed there, and yesterday J. R. Bell assumed the position of division freight agent. Mr. Bell was formerly in this position, but in the retrenchment of a few years ago the office was abandoned and he was appointed traveling freight agent at Baltimore. As his chief clerk he secured a Pittsburgh man, Frank Mooney, who was rate clerk in the office of Commercial Freight Agent T. J. Wallace. Mr. Mooney's former position here has not been filled.

Another change in the office of Mr. Walters is the appointment of W. H. Grove as contracting freight agent, vice A. J. Corrigan, resigned. Mr. Grove has been secretary to the division freight agent at Columbus for the past three years and was formerly connected with the traffic offices at Baltimore.

Pitcairn Supervisor Promoted.

C. H. Niemeyer, who has been supervisor of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania from George to Wilmerding, with headquarters at Pitcairn, has been promoted to the office of assistant engineer of the Sunbury and Shamokin division of the Philadelphia & Erie division of the Pennsylvania system. He succeeds A. R. Fillebrown, deceased. Mr. Niemeyer is succeeded at Pitcairn by G. C. Koons, promoted from supervisor at Johnstown, and Mr. Koons is succeeded by E. L. Pitcher, supervisor on the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington railroad.

Mr. Niemeyer is given a good promotion in this change. He has had a wide experience over the Pennsylvania system in the maintenance department, having entered the service in 1892, one year after his graduation from the engineering department of Cornell university. He was appointed to the Pitcairn office in January, 1901. His headquarters will be at Sunbury, Pa.

Railroad Notes.

Maj. H. D. Bulkley, controller of the Baltimore & Ohio system, was here yesterday.

Labor day will be generally observed in the general and traffic offices of the Pittsburgh railroads on Monday.

S. B. Liggett, secretary of the Pennsylvania lines west, has returned from a month's sojourn in New England.

Vice President B. A. Worthington of the Wabash lines east of Toledo was out on an inspection of a portion of the road yesterday.

It is expected that President F. A. Delano of the Wabash lines east of Toledo will stop here a day early next week on his way to New York.

C. F. Reed, who has been in the service of the Pennsylvania for several years as brakeman, has been promoted to the extra passenger conductor list.

F. M. Lockhart, clerk in the office of the general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio, will leave today for a vacation of two weeks at Buckeye Lake, O.

E. A. Fenton, assistant train master of the Pennsylvania's Erie & Ashtabula division at New Castle, accompanied by his wife, is spending a few days at Conneaut Lake.

Plans have been prepared for a handsome station building for the River division of the Pennsylvania at Oakmont. The borough is being asked to furnish a site for the structure.

J. McCormick, passenger brakeman on the Pennsylvania and manager of the Pennsylvania Monarchs, was at Hollidaysburg Thursday arranging for baseball games with Pennsylvania men at Hollidaysburg on Labor day.

W. B. Whitemore, formerly rate clerk in the freight department of the Pennsylvania here, yesterday assumed charge of his new position as commercial agent of the Seaboard Dispatch, as successor to the late John A. Murdock.

Frank Bowman, district passenger agent of the Chicago & Alton at Philadelphia, is covering his territory in this district and dropped in to look after Pittsburgh interests yesterday. He is booming the Alton's famous new "Ref Train," of course, saying there isn't a finer one in the country. He says that several of the Pittsburgh district delegations to the G. A. R. encampment from here will use the Alton from Kansas City to St. Louis on the return trip.
